Have a "tres bien" Summer. Enjoy Summer school!
Zeke

Janet-
It has been a pleasure working with you this year. You are a very smart girl - keep up the hard work. It was fun for me to work with such a sweet person. Good luck in the future.
Julie Perry

You are a nice girl & enjoyed the lunch hours with you. Let's continue to eat together next year (& possibly chit chat). Have fun during Summer!

Lynnette Burks, 12, receives her academic letter from Mr. C. E. Quandt. The Cat's Paw and the Pride Award were also academic awards offered.

Female Supremacy! Seniors Jon Terry, Tim Guinn and Ridley Stone hold up friends Emily Walz, Jenny Andreason and Adrienne Ley.

Show 'em your letter! Brock Nolan, 12, Leah Plocharczyk, 12, and Toni Purichia, 11, grin while showing their Panther pride.

Giggling Bernie Tharpe squirms while in Neil Poffenberger's grasp. The senior pair is acting out a scene for Repertory Theatre.

We are the biggest, the brightest and the best; our name is recognized statewide and beyond; our efforts reached their highest pinnacle when Redbook magazine named our school as the best public high school in the state because of our achievements in many fields. We have the upper hand by virtue of size alone; we boast the largest student population in Indiana. We do not, as so many schools do, shine in one area alone; we excel in the arts, academics, and athletics. Our Symphony Orchestra has won four consecutive state championships, the Counterpoints three. We consistently have the highest number of National Merit Semifinalists in Indiana, and our academic teams, especially the Academic Decathlon and the Science Olympiad, have finished either first or second in the state for years. Our sports are also competitive; both tennis teams and the boys' track team started with state titles this year, the boys' soccer team was state runner-up, and both swim teams are always highly ranked. The football team has defeated the state's (and the nation's) best teams, with upset victories against Carmel, Ben Davis, and even powerhouse Massillon (Ohio) Washington.

With the coming renovation, we will rise even higher than we are now; tens of millions of dollars of new science labs, computer rooms, vocational workshops, weight rooms, and even a second auditorium for the performing arts will be completed in 1995. We've all had to struggle with the early stages of renovation, though — the metal ceilings, the holes between classrooms, and the piles of dirt in the back of the school will eventually be converted into a state-of-the-art building and facilities.

The changes to our building were just the beginning. Early this year we learned there would also be changes at the top of our administration. From adjusting to a new principal to meeting new teachers, all aspects of our school have been touched.

All the triumphs and all the constant improvements are rungs in a giant ladder of success, a ladder which we have gradually climbed; we've finally arrived, and now we can watch the rest of the world as we sit back

ON TOP OF IT ALL!

"I'm almost late to U.S. History, but I guess I can stop for a picture," says junior Princeton Porter.

Kathy Minarik, 11, points to a tree growing over a gravestone. She was on a trip to Vincennes for Jr. Historical Society.

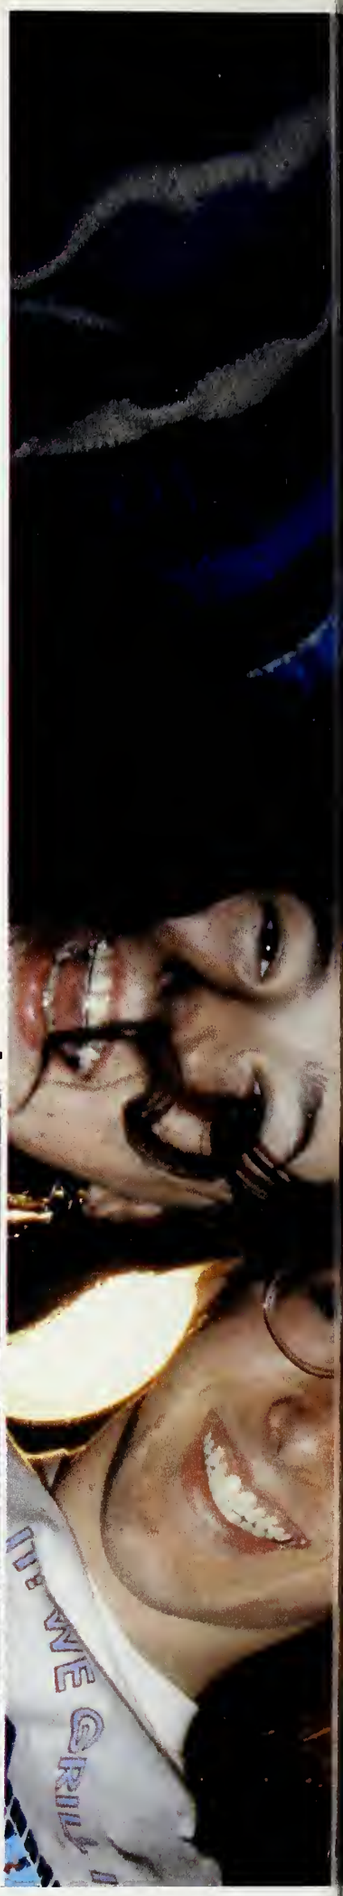

Kobie Johnson, 12, pouts after hearing that the Chatard Trojans defeated the Panthers in a tough football game.

Ping-pong master Neil Thompson, 12, dances in triumph after a match. This was one of the activities at the Land of Nod's (92 Spec group) lock-in.

Student Life

Two thousand eight hundred fifty-four students fill the halls, the classrooms, the parking lots, the auditorium, and the bleachers. A group of friends sits at a crowded cafeteria table, laughing and talking. The Symphony Orchestra waits, motionless, for a first explosive downbeat. A harried student rummages through the library's card catalog, trying to finish a project at the last minute. Thirty frustrated freshmen tackle (unsuccessfully) the ropes in gym class. A physics class tosses paper airplanes for a grade. A Senior Honor Code card is used (abused?) to escape school on a crisp fall day. All these people make up our essence; they make us the great school that we are.

Because of our enormous size, students and student life here are very diversified. It is not uncommon to see a group comprised of a wide ethnic diversity going out on a Friday night to have a good time; our variety makes us more open-minded and friendly towards all. We go to football games, parties, movies, travelling, concerts, hard-core shows, and camping; no night is dull for Panthers. We have fun at school and even more fun outside of it; that's why we're living

Thinkers and Dreamers. . .

The great mathematician and thinker Pythagoras once said, "Man is the measure of all things," meaning that human thought is the universe's standard for judgment. If this is so, then each one of our thoughts and opinions must be very important and noteworthy, right? Well, not quite. Students' personal philosophies range from partying rules of thumb to feminist statements and beyond; everyone's maxim is different!

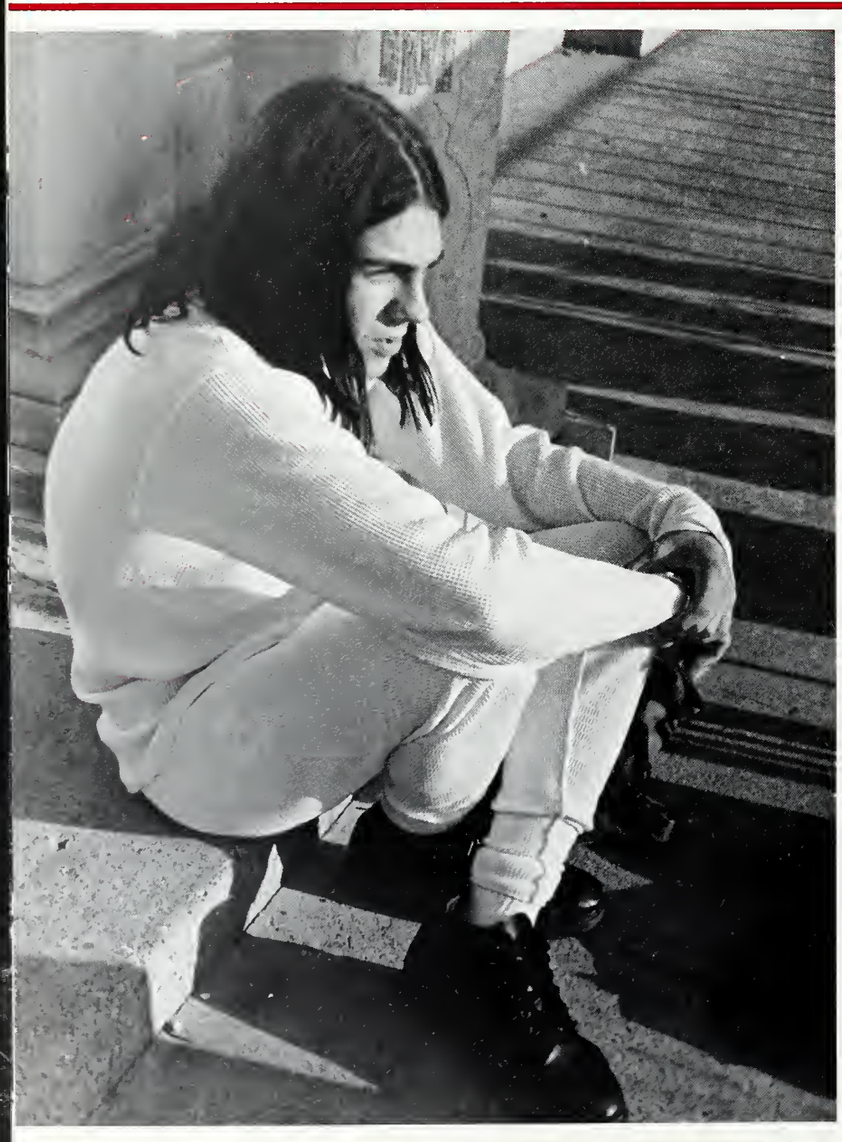

A good number of high school students have an upbeat, positive attitude about life. Senior Stacey Kalovidouris said, "If people like what you do, they like it; yet if they don't they can go to hell!" Others came up with funny sayings to help them deal with life's low points. Senior Carson Boneck offered this advice: "To survive, take each day step by step; just be sure your shoelaces aren't tied together." One last personal philosophy is that of Scott Hollingsworth, senior, who lives by the phrase, "Make Scott, not war." Totally nonsensical or deeply meaningful? You be the judge.

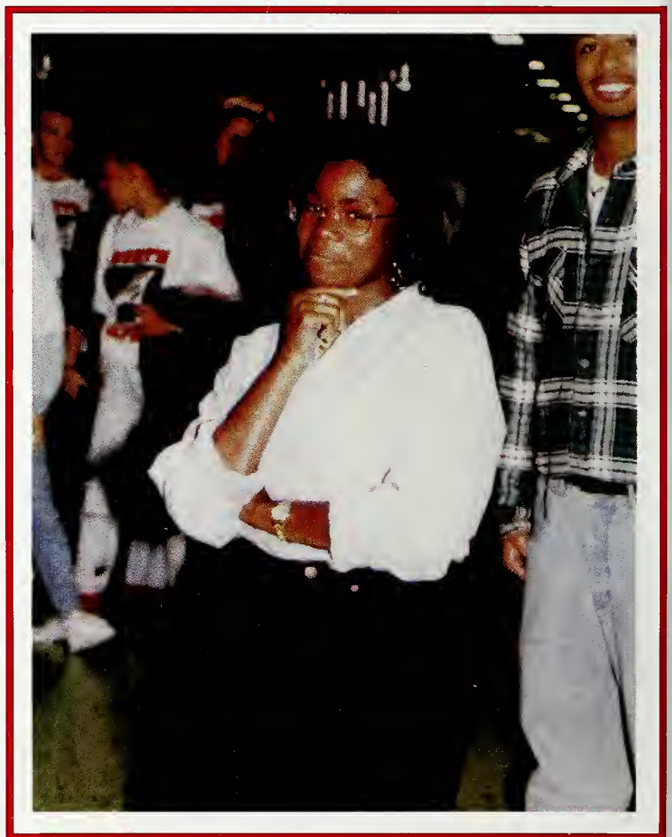

Not everyone, however, has such a rose-tinted outlook on life. Senior Archana Vittal insists that life is "surviving one day after another," while Seemi Siddiqui, senior, claims, "Life sucks and then you die." However, both girls say that their negative attitudes are mainly caused by school — senioritis, anyone?

Another common student philosophy is the life goal, a purpose to live for and work toward. One's goals could be a certain career, a standard of living, fame, or fortune. Senior Josh Bezy's purpose in life is, however, a little unusual. "What keeps me going each day is knowing that someday I will own the mortage of Mr. Bill Broderick's house and will someday foreclose." Revenge is not always a productive way to spend one's time; think of all those heroes in English books!

If you're still seeking a personal philosophy, look around you. From Shakespeare's "To thine own self be true," to Tom Cochrane's "Life is a highway, I wanna ride it all night long," mottoes pop up everywhere. If you can't find any that suit you, make up your own. Who knows? Maybe you'll be the next Thoreau, Shakespeare, or even Tom Cochrane.

Lean on Me. . .

Celebrate good times, come on!

Amanda Myers, Amanda Evans, and Bianca Dudeck-Wiseman, juniors, hang out under a tree during the summer.

Seniors T. Walter, M. Burke, E. Walz, E. Plater, J. Arkush, C. Ananias, S. Burns, A. Ley, and K. Jacklin show that you can always lean on a friend.

Trisha Miller, Chris Evans, Josh Buck, Meg Smith, and Susan Theobald, juniors, prove that going to dances with friends is always a blast.

Are they twins? Seniors Bobby Kohler and Robyn Ward enjoying the beautiful summer sun.

Freshmen Amanda Gardner, Jamie Yum, and Caryl Berman know that freshman year is a great time to make friends.

"I'm gonna wash that man right out of my hair," sing juniors Stacy Nell and Tricia Black in Lake Maxincukee.

Check out the Oakleys. Jamie Yum, freshman, and her sister Tammy, junior, sport matching sunglasses on their trip to Huntington Beach, California.

Susan Theobald and Trisha Miller, juniors, proudly show off the tent at camp in Michigan.

Junior bathing beauties L. Russell, N. Davidson, E. Hughes, S. Lapitsky, T. Barkman, A. Nicholson and H. Hester practice their poses for their upcoming Sports Illustrated shoot.

Our NC Girls

They just wanna have fun!

Sophomores Shannon Nealy, Lauren Lockhart, Kerry Karrmann, Erin Campbell, and Stephanie Hilgedag pucker up in their 70's wear.

Just hanging around are seniors Seemi Siddiqui and Jamila Pree. It's a senior concept, you wouldn't understand.

Eskimo Kathy Eyler, junior, leans against her snow cave. Regardless of the season, she shows her spirit by wearing school colors.

Our NC Guys

Boys will be boys. . .Bad boys! Bad boys!

These sea studs, senior M. Giganti, juniors J. Shannon, E. Bonning, B. Lester, M. McAffee, and senior K. Bonning relax in the Alabama sun.

"Look ma, no feet!" Carl Sputh and Byron Hittle, seniors, strut their stuff skiing on the White River.

NC's looking for a few good men. Elliot Miller and Brian Ayres, juniors, show what it takes to survive in the wilderness of the Smokey Mountains.

Rambo's back, and this time he's sporting a mohawk. Way to show your spirit, junior Jeremy Gray.

Marky Mark Giganti, senior, pumps his muscles for the girls. "It's such a good vibration."

People say they'd like to help. They want to make a difference, and it's easy to just say that. What takes the time and energy is changing those wants into realities. After spending time in Mexico and then Ecuador, I realized that it would be very easy for me to do mission work forever.

My hope is to work with a service organization, learn all I can, and then use my writing to further the awareness of those who cannot help directly. The innocent children I met and worked with were filled with hope for the future. Their dreams have no understanding of politics or international relations. It was wonderful to be around such people.

Is baking in the future for seniors Emily Walz, Stephanie Covert, Julie Arkush and Julie Perry?

What Will Become of Us?

"As you dream, so shall you become" Ralph Waldo Emerson.

Seniors Stacy Hilgedag and Heather Alexander have a definite future in disco dancing if they desire it.

"Beam me up, Laura." Will Laura Ruso, senior, take over Scotty's position on Star Trek someday? Tune in to see.

Sophomores Bonnie Bleeker and Lauri Barrett know tennis will be a big part of their future.

Seniors Heather Barnes and Shiena Watkins strike a pose in their matching overalls.

"Jingling, baby!" Junior Amy Brown can't keep still while practicing for Counterpoints.

"Metallica forever" must be going through senior Jason Herrmann's mind as he shows off his groovy t-shirt.

This student proudly displays his Jim Morrison t-shirt. Wonder who his favorite singer is?

Freshmen Peter Brown and Jamie Yum snap to the beat at a birthday party.

Pump Up the Volume

Hey Panthers. . .We will, we will rock you!

Mixers, parties and dances, all incorporate the sounds of good music, and these days, good music is definitely not hard to find. Radio stations, videos, and cars blast the latest songs and artists. But, the big question is what artists do students like the most?

The songs and their artists can be divided into many different catergories, the most popular are rap, R & B (Rhythm and Blues), alternative, and Top 40 (or pop). Senior Darrick Patterson, who is also a regular DJ for mixers, states that he prefers R & B and rap. And when DJ'ing, one of the most requested songs by his audience is "Mic Checka" by Das EFX, a rap group. Junior Mike Brown also enjoys rap. "I like artists from the East Coast like BDP and House of Pain."

There are also fans of R & B out there. Tracy Borel, a senior, claims, "I love Boys II Men." She generally prefers slow and mellow music also. Other popular R & B artists include Jodeci, TLC, and a newcomer, Mary J. Blige.

There seem to be a lot of students who prefer "alternative" music. Junior Carrie Calloway likes Alice In Chains, Sound Garden and Buffalo Tom. Another junior, Kate Michaelis, enjoys Fugazi, Descendants, Helmet and XTC (pronounced "ecstasy"), and Amy Astley, junior, likes Pearl Jam, Nirvana, the Red Hot Chili Peppers, and the Doors.

Junior Elizabeth Huff seemed to be the only fan of pop music left. "I love Color Me Badd," she emphasizes, a group that is frequently classified as R & B artists. She also likes John Mellencamp.

There were some students whose music preferences didn't fit into any of the catergories. Junior Andy Snyder likes Jack Hammer and disco music. Mike Gobart, a junior, likes Opera. "107.3," he says. "It plays, like, Looney Tunes music." Senior Jeff Dickerson says, "I like the Bee Gees, the Mamas and Papas, and my favorite song ever is 'Electric Avenue'."

Concerts, whether at Deer Creek or Market Square Arena, are always a popular way to spend an evening.

Music is a major part of any student's life. We listen to it when we wake up, on our way to school, and falling asleep at night. But never, ever, during class, right? Some people even venture to the Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra to listen to their type of music. Whatever one's tastes may be, he's sure to find another Panther who shares his musical preference.

Although students' musical preferences may differ, they all enjoy the sounds of good music, even if it is their own opinion. It doesn't have to have a definite beat or make sense; just make sure it sounds good.

We've Got Panther Spirit

Panthers rock the house. . .

"Hail our Panthers, hats off to thee! To our colors true we will ever be!" When the band gives the beat, the whole school joins in singing the fight song at NC's classic pep rallies.

What could possibly be better than missing Friday morning classes to go to North Central's gym, filled with smiles and spirit, as an awesome pep rally is held? It is exciting to see students proudly display their red, black, and white spirit! From the "senior yell" to Mr. Billy Walker's infamous "two bits, four bits" cheer, the crowd goes all out with screams and shouts.

This year's spirit is no longer restricted to athletics with the introduction of Academic Letters, Cat's Paw Awards, perfect attendance recognition, and the Pride Awards. Students can get just as pumped up about academics and performing arts with great achievements and awarded letters. The Counterpoints, orchestra, and band also enjoy bringing applause by their harmonizing music at pep rallies.

Spirit at North Central only has room to spread and grow! ". . .Red, black, white, united we stand. Working ever, failing never, pulling for our team together. Panthers we think you're grand. G-R-A-N-D! NC!"

Stranded on a Desert Island. . .

"No man is an island entire of himself" John Donne

Everyone feels the need to be by himself sometimes, but not even the most reclusive hermit in the world could live all alone, shut off from the entire human population. Life on, say, a desert island would be pretty dull without some special friend, a boyfriend/girlfriend, or even just a favorite belonging with which to while away one's plethora of spare time. However, exactly who, or what, would you want to have with you if you happened to be stranded out in the middle of the Pacific? The first choices are fairly obvious: food, clothing, water, shelter — the basic survival needs. After that, though, everyone's priorities differ.

"I'd take Tylenol," said senior Elizabeth Plater. (After all, wasn't it four doctors out of five that recommended it for desert island headaches?) Another realist was Matt Cohen, senior, who said practically, "I'd bring a radio so I could call someone to come get me." Unfortunately, these two are in the minority; most people would rather stick it out using creature comforts.

If she had to choose the essentials for castaways, senior Le'Quisha Hayes would bring "a cordless curling iron, a gun, and a five-pound bag of barbecue ribs and Skittles." Another food-oriented senior was Scott Hollingsworth, who'd have K.F.C. Honey BBQ Chicken to munch on.

As might be expected, most students would bring their love interests with them. Senior Jennifer Triplett couldn't do without her boyfriend from St. Louis; many others expressed the same sentiment. However, some choices for companionship swing to secret crushes; if Josh Hollingsworth, senior, were marooned for years, he'd want Mrs. Kathryn Allison with him. Senior Cat Holman dreams of "bringing back Mr. Brady Barr and also taking Mr. Tim Ricker — that hot new Biology teacher." Well, well.

Some students, however, are willing to scrap everybody else for the sake of one prize possession.

Senior Ramon Jackson would live alone for the rest of his life if only he could have his stereo system. Hmmmm. . .could even Robinson Crusoe find an outlet to plug it into?

by Audra Hodgin

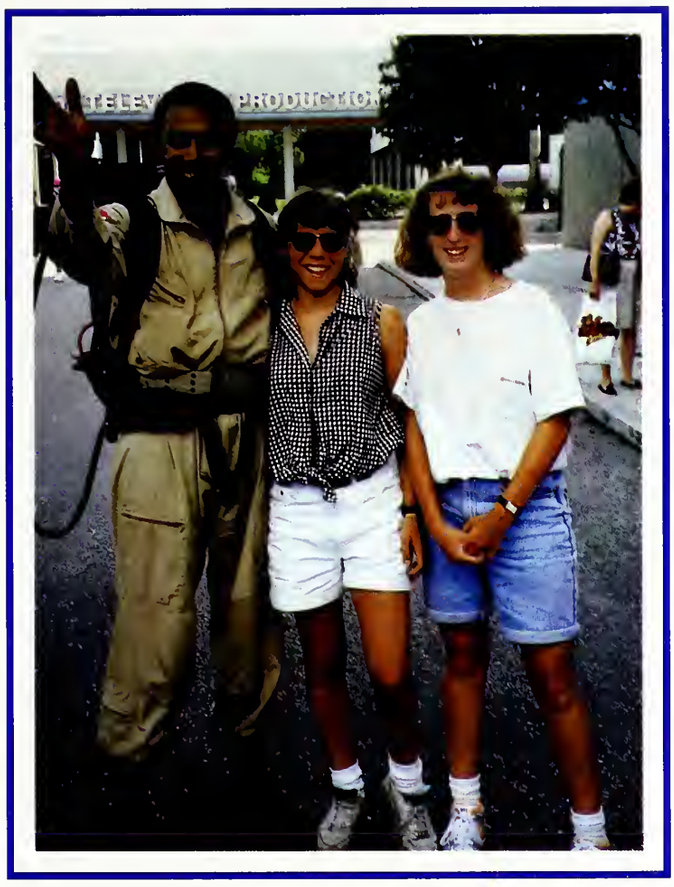

Sophomores Lauri Barrett and Lauren Lockhart wouldn't mind being stranded on an island as pretty as the Bahamas.

David Letterman would not be a bad choice to be stranded with, as junior Jeremy Whitham shows.

Junior Becky Peters knows sometimes it's best just to be alone in upstate New York.

Jason Lambert, senior, and his brother show that a pair of surfboards are essential on a deserted island.

Knowing the deserted island dangers, senior Amy and freshman Stephanie Powell might persaude the Universal Studios Ghost-Buster to join them.

This student stands upon his wrecked ship, wondering how he got on this island anyway.

You Look Marvelous!

Panther fashion equals self-expression

Each day, students bring into school an air of individuality and independence, simply by the clothes they wear. Everyone from the hip-hoppers to the hard-rockers has a unique style that reflects their personality.

Senior Michelle Turley feels that these days, people are wearing whatever they want. "Everyone has basically their own style. Whatever you like is what's in." Junior Kim Grayson feels the same way. In addition to people having their own style, she thinks that "certain people express the way they are feeling by the way they dress."

Other students feel that there is a trend in clothing. Big and baggy clothes are definitely "in" for both guys and girls. Stefanie Pritchett, senior, says, "Birkenstocks (those sandals with the socks), big jeans and casual-looking clothes are "in" this year." Senior Amanda Griffen agrees, but her preferences are "big, bulky sweaters and jeans."

Some students seem to prefer brand-name clothing and loud, bright colors. Shawn Cabbell, senior, proudly indicates, "I like Karl Kani, Cross Colours and boots. Nice big boots." And senior Eric Allen says, "I like colorful clothes. Colorful! Big! Baggy! And most definitely matching."

Students agree that individuality is "in," although there are a few trends out there. More and more students are beginning to realize that what they wear is not important. But what is important is to wear whatever makes you feel comfortable, and what helps you to express yourself.

by Heather Barnes

Seniors Michelle Turley and John Burt look very trendy before they step out for a night on the town.

Stacy Nell, Karen Wilson, Katie Moss, Mary Beth Mock, Jason Rich, and Blaine Dinwiddle, juniors, show that hats and smiles are "in."

Senlors Chantel Byrd, Shiena Watkins, and class of 92 graduate Kerrigan Burt display their bright colors, which are definitely "in" this year.

"We're too sexy for this picture," these freshmen are probably saying as they stop for a fantastic pose.

Food, Glorious Food!

Food is essential, so let's eat it up, Panthers!

Food. It keeps us alive, both physically and socially. Whether it means skipping class to go to Bagel Fair or taking a hot date out to Showbiz, we all enjoy the time we take to eat.

Eating not only fills your stomach, but provides memorable ocaasions to laugh at for years. Freshman Wendy Hague said, "Once I was in a restaurant and I accidently tripped a waitress. She went down, and the food went flying."

One of the great challenges to of a teenager, being on a limited budget, is finding a cheap restaurant that provides quality food. This brings us to the infamous Taco Bell. Although perhaps lacking in the quality end, it certainly makes up for it in the money department. Chris Daniels, senior, said that the Taco Bell employees accused him of stealing the foil ashtrays and chased him out to his car.

Restaurants also have a tendency to be the setting of many embarassing moments. Junior Belinda Phemistar said, "I walked into the restroom and while I was in the stall, three guys walked in talking and I realized I was in the wrong restroom. I had to wait until they finished until I could leave."

And there is also the choice of eating in our school cafeteria where you can buy a meal for the bargain price of two dollars. Wow! What a deal! Take our advice- go out to lunch.

It could only happen in New York. These five juniors made a run to the store and ran into the Koolaid man.

Best friends Jen Carpenter and Nicole Albright, seniors, stop in the kitchen to pose for the camera.

All Around the World . . .

"Standing on top of the World . . ." No matter where they go, our students leave their mark. Here, students have numerous opportunities to travel abroad with such programs as International Baccalaureate, People to People, IU Honors Program, and many other foreign language trips. Students from other countries also have the chance to visit our famous school in foreign exchange programs.

Students don't, however, travel soley for the purpose of academics. How many times have your friends come up to you and described some wonderful, exotic vacation spot where they spent spring break? Then there are those special family getaways that usually bring you to some little town no one has ever heard of.

No matter where you travel, always keep an open mind. Granted, sometimes it's hard, but it really does put things into perspective.

Faculty Night Live!

Staff gets down and dirty in first ever FNL

Teachers dressed up in costumes singing and dancing and what, having a good time? Not the usual picture students get of their teachers, but one that was presented on October 2 and 3 in Faculty Night Live! Washington Township teachers put on a variety show to raise money for our schools.

The opening act was a chorus line comprised of teachers. Mr. Dave Petty and Mr. Jay Hill both sang solos and then joined together for two melodies. Mr. Dick Gould, Mr. Bill Gulde, Mrs. Lissa Miller, and Mrs. Dee Webster performed a poetic comedy "Teachers in Love."

On a more musical note, Mr. Dick Dennis played a violin solo, and teachers sang in "We Are the Choir." The final act was a melodrama, "The Harassed Househusband," performed by the English Department.

by Abby Gardner

Mrs. Judy Williams, aka "Lola Lascivicus," strikes a villainous pose before taking the stage.

Ms. Jeanie Krohn took on the role of innocent "Penelope Pureheart" in the English Department's act.

Mr. Dick Dennis gets ready to awe the audience with his beautiful violin music.

Ms. Saundra Brown warms up her "snow hand" prior to throwing snow on her fellow English teachers.

She's got the power! Miss Melissa Brown flexes before her debut in the role of "Winsome Wimple."

Mrs. Dee Webster and Mr. Dick Gould served as narrators for the comedy "Teachers in Love."

"We Are the Choir," sing J. Gephart, P. Lineback, K. Raper, and P. Wiehe, D. Fruits, S. Brown, J. Williams, B. Gulde, and R. BeGuhn.

The chorus line included teachers L. Wheeler-Nash, F. Stevens-Jacobi, J. Krohn, J. Wendt, J. Warrick, M. Chorpenning, J. Wiley, and M. Brown.

Spirit Week At Its BEST

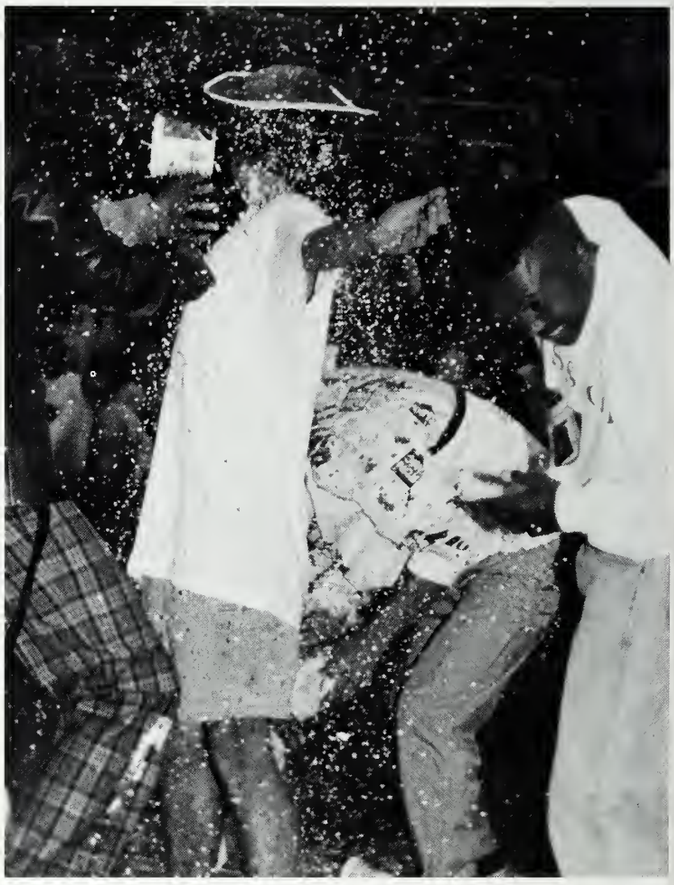

Pep session brings cottage cheese and fun!

Dancing the night away are seniors Tracy Borel and Darrick Patterson.

This couple smiles brightly as they dance to the music.

Chasing the Sun: HC '92!

Homecoming weekend was an overall success. Packed with fun activities and exciting victories, Homecoming truly showed students' enthusiasm and overwhelming school spirit. The weekend kicked off with a game against the Terre Haute North Patriots. Panther fans filled the stadium full of hope and positive attitudes. At halftime, the marching band gave a spectacular show, followed by the introduction of the Homecoming King and Queen candidates. Africa Robey was crowned Queen and was warmly congratulated by the court. The night ended on a victorious note with the Panthers defeating the Patriots.

The dance was an event to display the unique styles and attitudes of all who attended. Music was provided by both a band (Mr. Machine) and a D.J. (senior Kevin Fischer), both of which kept the students "grooving" all night long. The theme, "Chasing the Sun", fit the evening perfectly. Approximately half-way through the dance, Eric Allen was crowned King and openly displayed his gratitude.

Afterwards, party-goers continued to dance the night away until midnight.

Homecoming proved to be one of the best ever. It was definitely a weekend to go down in history.

YOURBOO

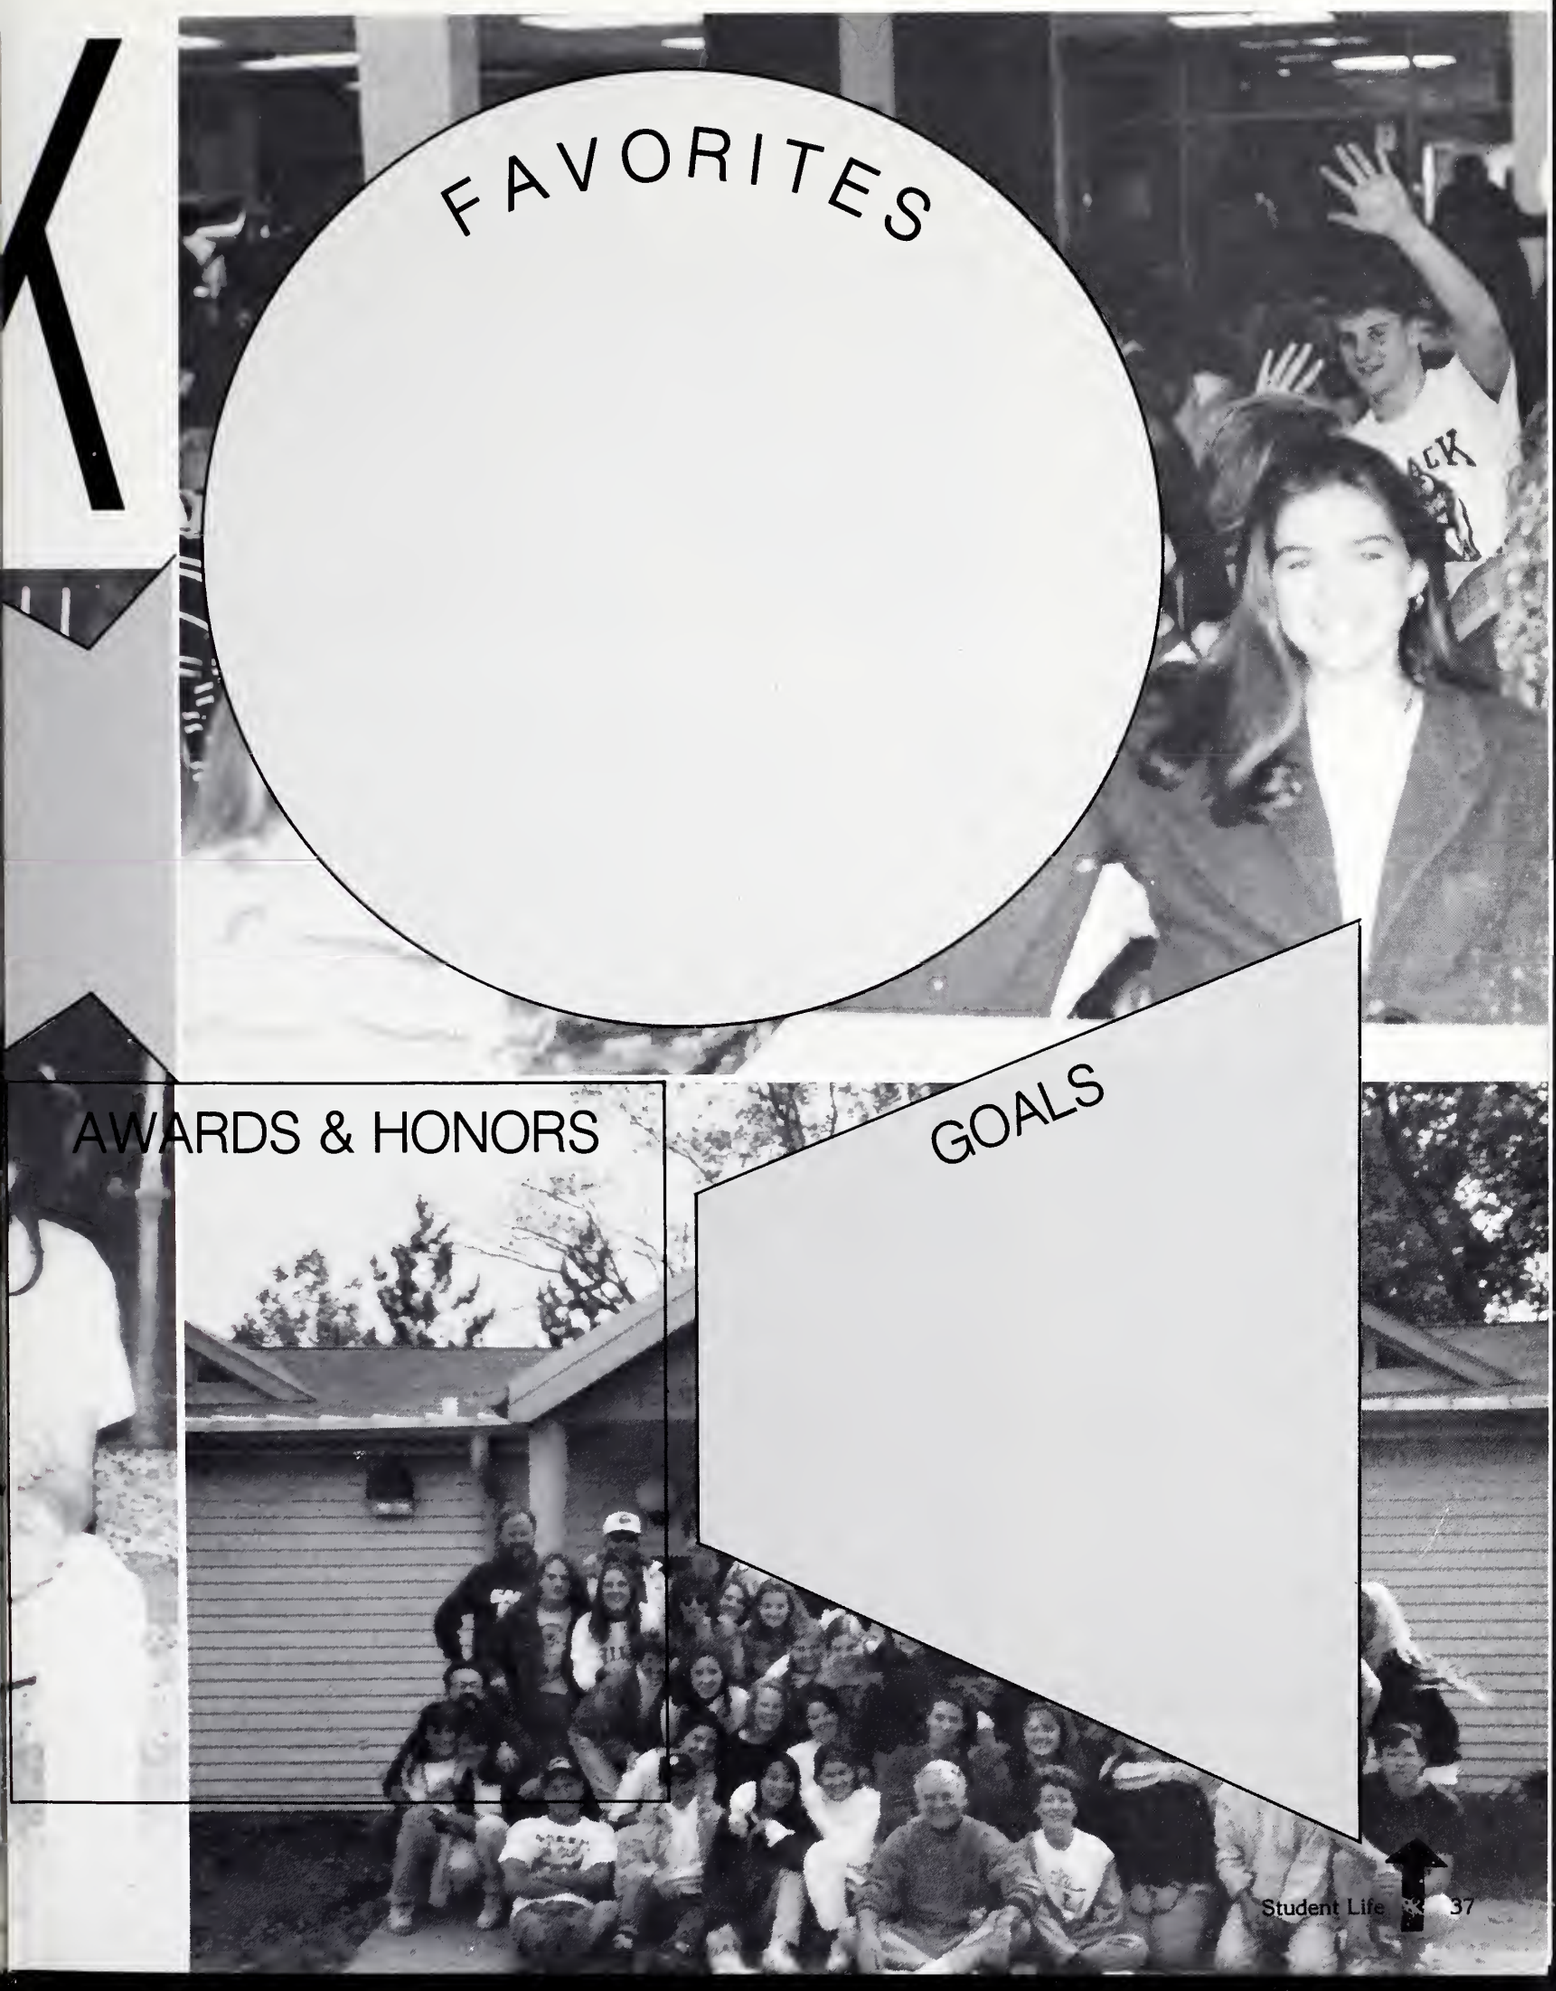

Each year students plop down a wad of money to buy a school yearbook, and a lot of times don't even recognize half the faces they see. Well, this year we decided to make the yearbook YOURBOOK. This page is dedicated to you. Take some time to fill out your favorites, your '92-'93 schedule, special honors or awards you received, special dates, anything you want to remember about your year. By doing this, you will have not only a yearbook to remember NC, but also a yearbook to remember you!

A Day In The Life Of. . .

In the vast and endless hallways of our school, there are bound to be a few faces (maybe more) that you don't recognize. Well, to help you get aquainted with your peers a little bit more, we've decided to let you spend a day in the life of Elizabeth Plater and Martin Zivitz. Elizabeth and Martin were randomly picked as the two students we will introduce. Because, of course, they know themselves best, we are going to let them tell you in their own words about their average day, activites, and maybe even hopes and dreams. We hope this helps show you the variety of students there are to know at NC.

Martin

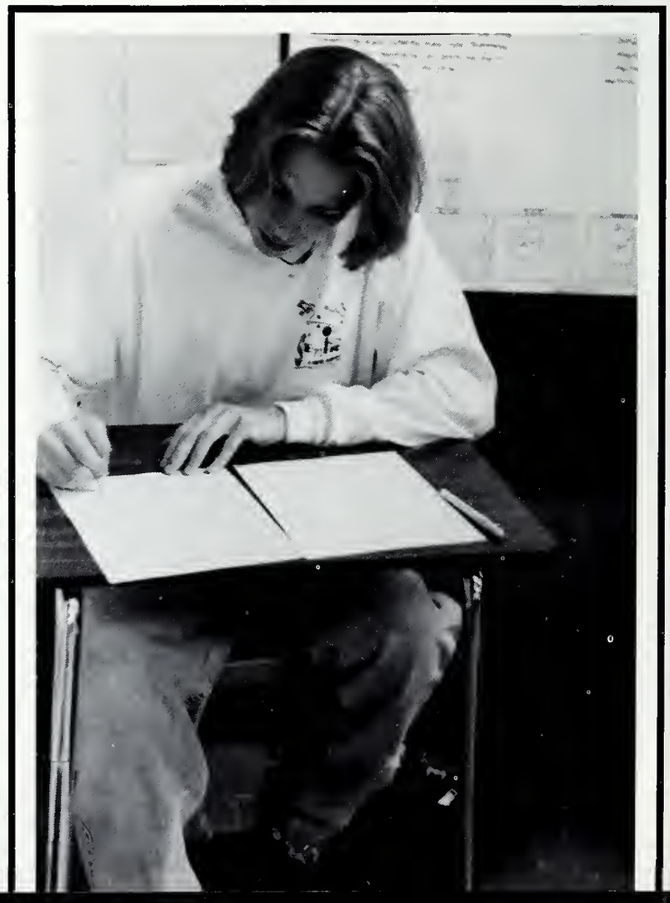

My day begins at the crack of dawn. I somehow crawl out of bed and manage to shower. At this time I load up on food to give me energy: a pop-tart, a vitamin, and a Mountain Dew. Then I hop into the '79 vintage hot rod (ok, ok I own a slug bug). I arrive at school and sit in my car for a few minutes, the most relaxing time of my day.

By 7:30 I am learning about the laws of physics by the master himself, Mr. Guy Konkle. Psychology, my next period, is the only class in which watching porno flicks constitutes a homework assignment. I won't talk about what it's like in French class because, well, I don't understand anything in there. Next is Economics via Mr. Andy Wiggins. The class is pretty boring; once you've seen one supply and demand curve, you've seen them all.

Period 6/7 is the best part of the day: study hall! It is when being a senior pays off because of a beautiful piece of plastic, the "Senior Honor Code," which allows the student to go to places like the library (yeah, right), the computer lab (as if), and even Burger King (Bingo!)

I return from my break to attend World Lit. One year a group of students wrote "Abandon all hope, Ye who enter here" on Mrs. Libby's door. How true! Finally it's 10th period and I have the joy of going to Calculus.

I took difficult classes this year because I don't feel that someone should slide through life. To me, life is a constant challenge. One day you can be on top of the world, and the next day everything can go wrong. I once heard a piece of good advice: "When you're at the bottom, at least you know which way is up."

Elizabeth

I am an International Baccalaureate Student, which has been very challenging. The program requires that I take certain classes (such as Theory of Knowledge), that I do a certain number of hours of volunteer work, and that I fulfill essay and test requirements. Although the schedule is very demanding, it has also been very rewarding. IB has prompted my involvement with such service organizations as Girls Incorporated (a national organization for the education and encouragement of young women) and University Hospital, where I have volunteered during the summer. It has also made me focus my goals and manage my time effectively.

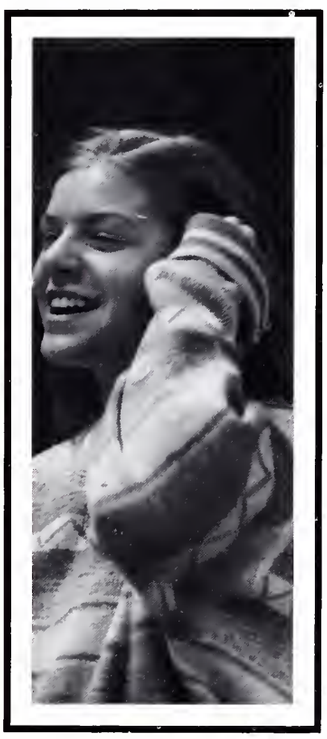

In addition to IB, I am involved with many activites related to NC. I am a member of the National Honor Society, the National Art Honor Society, Artistically Talented, Evergreen, Model UN, and Academic Decathlon. I have also been published in Etchings in Thought and am representing the school as one of the four students chosen to compete in the Fine Arts division of Preludes. My hobbies include guitar, drawing, reading, and riding my bicycle. I am a strict vegetarian and am not affiliated with any religious association. My favorite fruit is probably mango, and I never watch TV, okay almost never.

I don't really have any prevailing philosophy of life, but I do believe that the most important part of growing and learning is believing in one's self. I am fairly self-confident, and love to learn and always do my best to achieve the very high standards I set for myself.

My biggest fear at the moment is that I will somehow get senioritis. I've been doing okay so far, but will I be able to withstand college applications, semester finals, extended essay deadlines, and IB tests? I hope so!

We are Seniors. . .

. . .the regular rules don't apply.

In reference to senior year, national speaker Mark Sharenbrock says that "these are the best days of your lives." This statement is hard to dispute since the senior year is the climax of everyone's young adult life. This page is a tribute to the gradutating class of 1993, a class whose time here has been a period of extremes. A class that has seen three principals and two Presidents. A class that has experienced both tragedy and jubilation. A class that, in athletics, has experienced the thrill of victory and the agony of defeat. A class that has gone through high school only to see a renovation project commencing at its departure. This class has seen both the highs and lows of our school, but most importantly it came out of the confusion standing on both feet. The class of '93 is definitely one to be admired for years to come.

TOP OF THE CLASS

Academics

Study, study, study. Every parent's dream is a son or daughter who works ahead on major assignments such as papers or projects and who gets perfect straight A's. This, they think, is the "academic" way. We're all like that, great students who always do their homework, right?

Wrong! Academics isn't just listening to lectures and doing 80 math problems every night; every department is reaching out to find better ways to make students turn on to learning. With more creative projects, group work, and individualized learning contracts (like those in the Learning Unlimited program), our school is once again taking the lead into the 21st century. We are the only school in the state so far to offer the Education 2000 program, a series of innovative changes from the traditional class program.

With these new ideas for education plus a newly renovated building, we will be the school of the future. Our students will easily be on their way, with maybe just a little studying, to the TOP OF THE CLASS.

Academic Pride Recognized

The Panther Recognition Program is held each semester to bring up students' attitude, grade performance, and expectations. It is a chance for students to be recognized and be proud of their outstanding academic performance in front of the student body, faculty members, and community.

At the September ceremony, as Mr. Kenneth McGee read off the list of the students who had perfect attendance, Ms. Sylvia Lane handed each student a Student Achievement Discount Card and Mr. C.E. Quandt shook each award winner's hand. The Panther Discount Card enables students to receive discounts from various businesses near North Central. Each student also received a free T-shirt.

Another award is the Pride Award, which students win by being nominated by a faculty member for effort or improvement in the classroom, or in personal attitude or behavior. The student nominated must also be passing all courses. These winners received a pin and a discount card.

If a student was selected by the school counselors for outstanding improvement in academic performance, he earned the Cat's Paw Award. Each winner received a pin and a discount card.

The last award to be presented was the Academic Letter. This letter is equivalent to a varsity athletic letter. Second year winners received a bar to pin on their letter. This is North Central's highest academic honor. All students needed 95 points after four semesters, 115 points after five semesters, 135 points after six semesters, 155 points after seven semesters, and 175 points by the end of the second semester senior year.

Many schools throughout America award students for participation in athletics or performing arts; however, North Central, number one in the state, is one of the first schools to recognize and award students for academics, attendance, and attitude.

Science Smells

Do you ever wonder what that strange, horrid odor is in upper E and F halls? It's a smell so revolting that you have to use the cuff of your sleeve to block it from your sensitive nose.

These strange stenches come from the wonderful and productive labs conducted in our science classes. A majority of the smells come from the often nauseating dissections in classes such as Biology, Zoology, and Advanced Biology. Some of the animal dissections that students are so fortunate to attempt are the earthworm, a fetal pig, a clam, a frog, perch, a cat, a shark, and a sheep's brain.

Oddly enough, many of the students are fond of the smell and of the dissection itself. Senior Spencer Fields stated, "Every time I walk through the halls and smell that sweet formaldehyde odor in the air, I think back on the good old dissection days." Junior Minissa Dent has a different view, however. She remembers "having my locker in upper E hall and living through the awful smell of the shark every day."

Weird odors are also given off by mixing strange and unknown chemicals in Chemistry. This "smell" comes from students experimenting - unofficially- with the various chemicals after completing a required lab.

Whatever mischievous act a student might pull in lab, causing awful smells to linger in the halls, the rest of the student body is just too fortunate to smell the awful product all day long, and even for many days later, if the odor is strong enough. The smell has become a part of E and F halls; and many students would not recognize them without their trademark.

Real Life

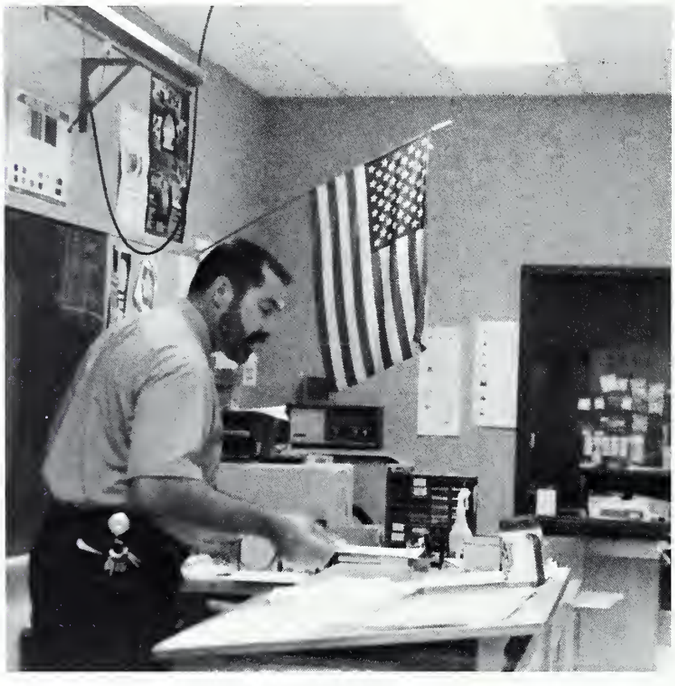

The J. Everett Light Career Center offers many alternatives to students from NC and ten other high schools. The Career Center has its own principal, Mr. Eldon Horton, and staff, making it a separate school, but since it is close to NC, it provides easy access to our students.

There are three different kinds of classes offered. Examples of adult classes are Real Estate, Nursing, and high school credit classes. The second group, made up mostly of juniors and seniors, is three-hour vocational classes, such as Child Care, Cosmetology, Dental Assisting, Auto Mechanics, and many others. The last kind of class is North Central classes held at the Career Center. They are general education classes such as art, industrial arts, keyboarding, and business education classes.

We are very lucky to have the opportunity to take these educational classes and to prepare ourselves for the future.

The ART of Life

Have you ever wondered how a person can put a blob of paint on a canvas, call it art, and be paid over a thousand dollars for it, when it really looks like something created in kindergarten?

If you answered yes, you should definitely take an interest in the 20 different art classes offered here, ranging from sculpture to photography. Even if your only talent is making blobs, enrolling in a beginning art class can expand your horizons and help you become an artist. Through these classes anyone, no matter how able, can experiment with and learn about art.

Many of the visual arts students displayed their talents in the Metropolitan School District of Washington Township Artistically Talented Program. These students are Beth Barnett, Jane Carpenter, Jessica Distaulo, Kristen Florey, Chad Gallion, Ezra Houser, Erin Huber, Jennifer Hughes, Cara Jurgonski, Anne LaRue, Tim Lockett, Tshombe Massela, Nicole Mauck, Jaime McGhee, Maggie Molloy, Michael Olson, Andrea Panarisi, Elizabeth Platter, Ivan Rouse, Angela Schmetzer, Erin Swanson, Lisa VanAlstine, Erin Vernon, and Agnieszka Wojiciechowska.

All of these students have a chance to display their creations for the student body in the Fine Arts Festival every May.

LU-Paths to Success

It's the greatest program ever!" exclaimed senior Heather Vickery when asked what she thought about the Learning Unlimited program.

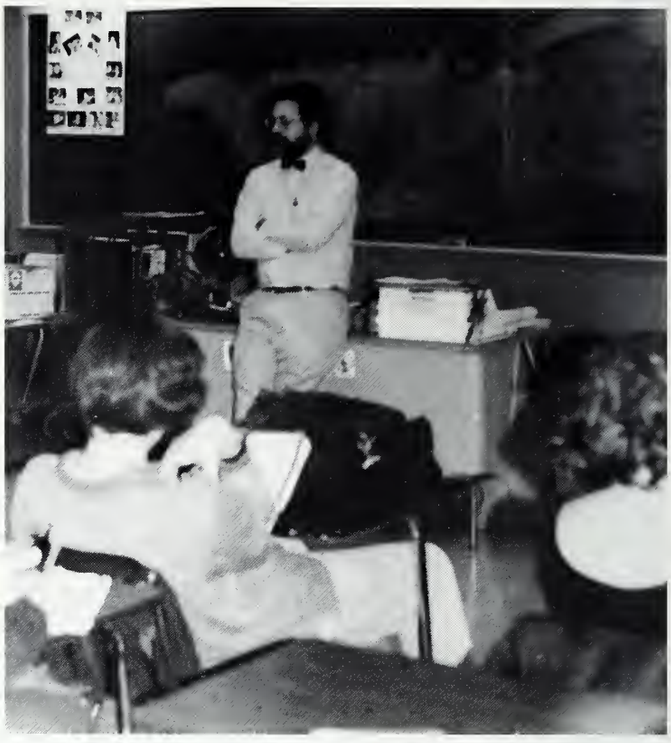

"Without a doubt!" agrees Mr. Mike Cupp, the only original LU faculty member. It was founded because the teachers knew there had to be a better way to learn and to relate learning to real life. Students get to experience and apply concepts as well as hear them in class through work within the community. Life role skills such as interacting with authority, dealing with disappointment, managing time, and exploring a career are emphasized through these community projects.

Juniors and seniors sign contracts with their community resource person and with the teacher whose class their project relates to. They then go to community on Fridays during study halls or periods when they have an LU class. The classes made up of freshmen and sophomores decide as a class what they will do for their experience; they then take a feild trip to complete their task.

Another positive aspect of the Learning Unlimited program is its staff, headed by Mr. Jay Hill. The staff strives to be innovative and to create good teacher-student relationships.

Learning Unlimited is a unique alternative program that gives the students a chance to relate their classroom work to real life situations. It also promotes long-lasting friendships with both peers and teachers.

Aim High

The African American Scholars program, in its third year, is for black students grades nine through eleven and their parents. Among scheduled activities at the meetings is listening to special guest speakers on a variety of topics, including motivational skills and possible careers.

Coordinator Mrs. Marilyn Corbitt who works with the program advisor, Mrs. Judith Rodgers, said that the purpose of African-American Scholars is to "provide encouragement, enrichment, and information to African-American students." She continued, "We monitor academic performance and the curriculum that the students choose. We attempt to help African-American students and parents effectively access the educational opportunities that are available to them."

Among the activities is the annual fashion show. The African-American Scholars sponsor this event in March; participation is open to all North Central students. The African-American Scholars also participated in one activity in conjunction with members of the Junior Historical Society and the Black Student Union; the groups explored the Indiana partion of the Underground Railroad. African-Americans Scholars is an innovative way for students to get involved, make new friends, and learn all at the same time.

Windows to the future

The computer lab is a place that enables students to work on class projects, create math programs, type papers, and do many other interesting activities. It provides an opportunity for students to complete projects more quickly and easier.

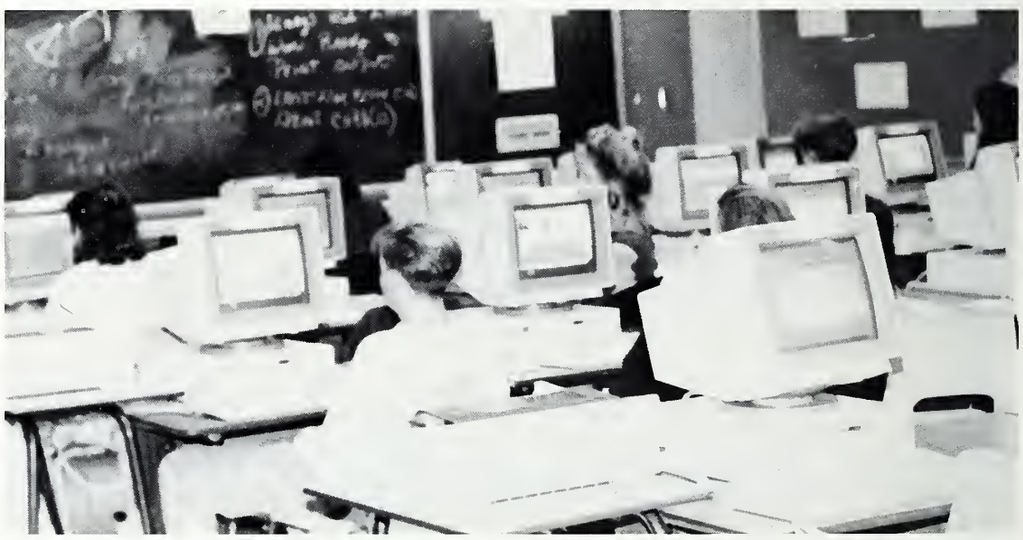

Classes are more and more beginning to to take advantage of the numerous aspects of the computer. Mr. Rick Shadiow has his Geometery classes write math-related programs for his class. Eventually, students create their own programs on Macintosh computers. Mrs. Barbara Parker-Davis has her class complete a computer project on the Hypercard program; her students have to analyze a poem creatively, using the abundant capabilities of Hypercard.

Many students enjoy the computer lab and feel that it is very beneficial to their learning. Sophomore Joelle McMaster stated, "The computer lab is equipped with advanced technology to help make completing projects easier for students." Even though students appreciate the wonderful help from the staff members in the computer lab, they feel that the hot temperature of the of the room is completely unbearable. Senior Mitch Harris commented, "Everyone is really helpful and nice, but I could cook a roast beef on the floor." Senior Scott Hollingsworth stated, "The people there are really nice and they help me with my problems; however, it's hotter than blue blazes." Senior Daniel Touw "loves that place."

Computers are becoming more important in all aspects of education with the development of advanced computers. The Marsh and Kroger receipts have helped buy 27 of the 30 new computers needed for the computer lab. These computers have helped students to finish complicated projects more easily. Computers play a large part in education today and will be even more important in everyone's future.

A Journey

Hilltop is a building on our campus that provides extra space for day care and advanced math classes. Most students who go to Hilltop are enrolled in either Geometery, Pre-Calculus, or Calculus.

The carpeted classrooms are wonderful in the cold winter months to keep oneself warm and to provide a quiet atmosphere for inquisitive students. Only four teachers, Mr. Paul Hutslar, Mr. H. Brown Harrison, Mr. Paul Brown, and Mrs. Sally Ernstberger, are fortunate enough to have classes in Hilltop, which provides students with a less hectic and crowded atmosphere.

However, a strong disadvantage that many students are concerned with is the walk over to Hilltop in the rain and snow. "I hate walking in the rain and cold to go to a math class," stated junior Karen Wilson. Junior Amanda Haury thinks, "There needs to be a shuttle bus for students during the cold winter." Junior Kevin Vernick would "rather not go because of the cold rainy weather." Many students strongly dislike the fact that they have to go out in the cold Indiana weather.

On the other hand, students try to think of positive thoughts during the long walk that seemingly takes forever. Besides seeing the day care children, students enjoy the fact that since they are forced to go over to Hilltop, they get an extra four minutes before and after class. This makes each Hilltop class period a total of eight minutes shorter. Junior Ted Stimson commented, "I like the extra eight minutes off of class." Junior Jennifer Kline likes that "it cuts class shorter. It's a break from being in the same building all day."

Even though one might have to run through the cold rain and snow, Hilltop provides just as great of an environment for studying as our main school building.

Setting new Boundaries

The English Department offers a variety of programs for the student body, many of which are offered in different levels to accommodate various students' interests.

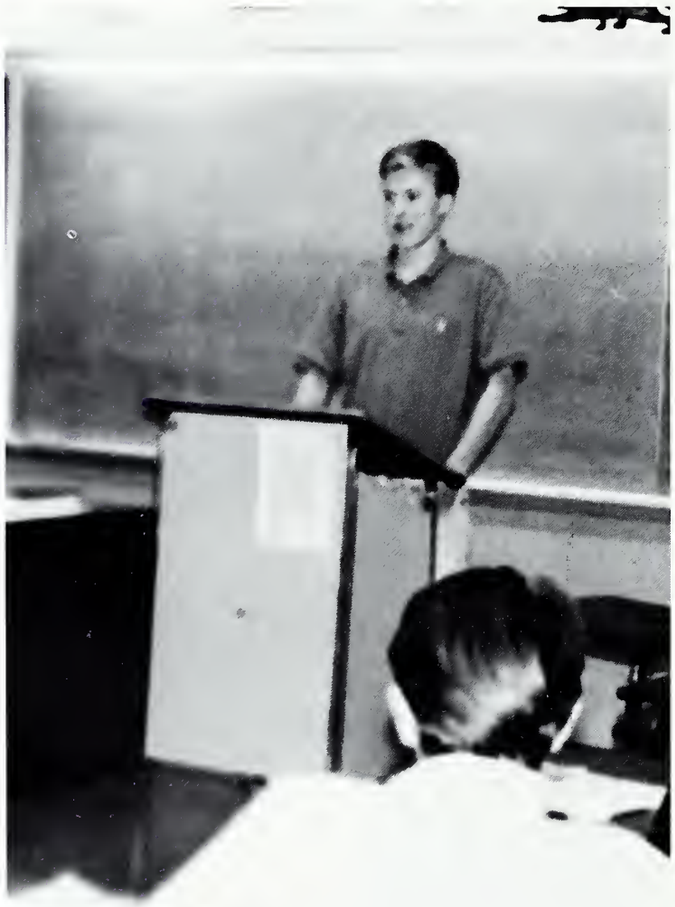

Ranging from creative-writing lessons to graduation requirements, classes in the English Department offer students the opportunity to follow their individual preferences.

Speech and journalism also are an important part of the English Department. Speech class provides a place for students to give assigned speeches on topics of their choosing. This enables students to express their opinions freely, yet under certain boundaries to practice their speaking skills. Journalism enables students to learn how to write professional stories and to get a chance to practice their abilities by writing many original works.

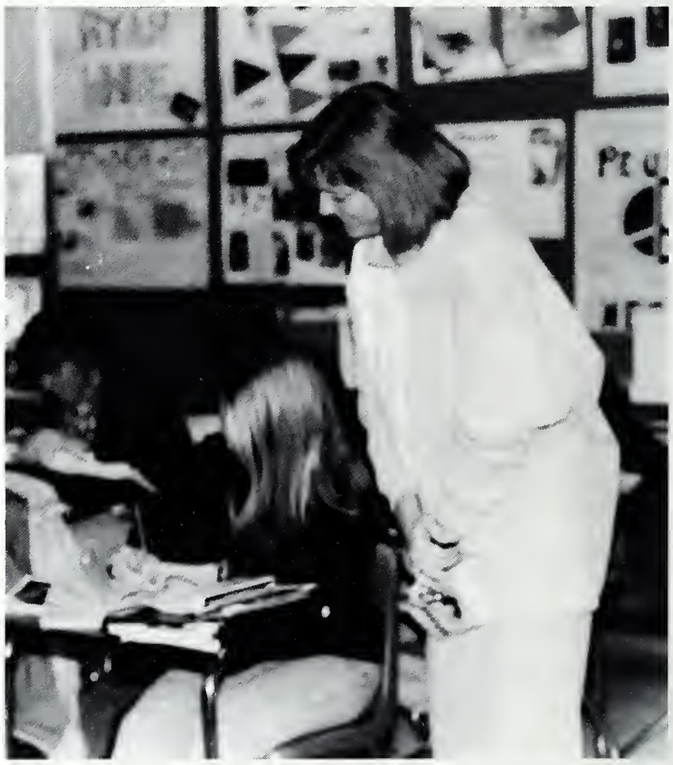

The curriculum has been expanded beyond the boundaries of a typical English class. Classes now involve more cooperative learning, field trips, and computer work. Classes not only teach writing skills, but give students the desire to take an interest in extra-curricular reading and writing.

English is not the same as it used to be. It has been designed more around the interests of our students; it enables us to practice skills and activities needed for our future.

Cultural Experiences

Students have the opportunity to choose one of six different foreign languages: Latin, German, Chinese, Hebrew, French, and Spanish. Students take foreign language classes for many reasons. Junior Aaron Rickleff stated, "French is a beautiful language and I'm hoping to broaden my horizons by living in France someday." Junior Greg Kalleres chose Spanish because "one day we will have to communicate with the outside world, and Spanish will be a very beneficial language in the future."

Our new foreign language lab allows students to interact with their language on a one on one basis. Teachers provide activities in which students talk to each other through headphones.

Another reason for students to choose one of the many languages is the cultural experiences available. French and Spanish offer an I.U. honors program which allows a student to travel to France or Mexico for two months. German students can also get involved by participating in the North Central Coburg, Germany exchange program.

Express Yourselves

When thinking of social studies, one might picture sitting in a dull classroom being lectured for the entire period about ancient civilizations. However, thanks to our Social Studies Department, the classes are interesting and thought provoking. In these times of national elections and other turbulent issues such as abortion and the economy, social studies classes provide an excellent forum for students to think about and express their opinons.

History is no longer designed only to implant historical facts from centuries ago in the minds of students, but also to discuss current issues. Social studies classes still study important events of the past, but now there is a greater emphasis on studying today's changing world. This is done through reports, projects, and debates that center around today's policies and domestic affairs. For instance, in many of Dr. Bill Broderick's classes, students hold debates or discuss current topics such as U.S. foreign aid to other countries to express their strong opinions. No matter what, social studies constantly aims to inform students on the issues of today.

Blood, sweat, tears-PE

"Only 20 more push ups. Come on, let's go, go, go!!" exclaims the physical education teacher as the students frantically try to accomplish their task only to find out that they will be timed on the 800-meter-run in a few minutes.

Physical education is one of those enjoyable classes which every freshman must take. Even though it's virtually impossible for those who lack coordination and endurance to run around the track or perform a gymnastics routine on the balance beam, gym is a class filled with opportunities to provide hilarious memories.

Students are also required to complete six weeks of swimming, which entails learning the basic strokes, swimming laps for an individual time, attempting dives off the diving board, and playing water polo. As an elective students can also take lifesaving. In this class they are able to become certified lifeguards, ready to apply for a job.

Health, too, is a required class for sophomores; students learn all about the human body and its mechanics. Even though health is not known for its particularly exciting atmosphere, one can never forget the time spent learning the muscles of the body.

Gym is very beneficial for health and vice versa. In health one learns about all of the muscles that one used in gym class. Gym encourages students to gain the knowledge of what each muscle does by experiencing the movement of each one first hand. These two classes are completely different, yet work together to provide essential information for each other.

The Girls Sweep!

The score is 40-30 in the last match as her aching arms strive to hit the ball. The sound of hitting balls echoes the beat of everyone's heart. She is faced with tough competition on the court. She runs to get to the ball as it crosses over the net. . .

The girls tennis team was certainly an incredible team. The emphasis here is "team." "They work as a team and play as a team," said head coach Heather Clark. The girls are extraordinary individuals; however, they are also exceptional as a team. The team members get along well together and always stand behind one another. Deep down they desire to be better than anyone else, a desire which pushed them even harder to accomplish their goals.

Their goals this year were to unite as a team as well as to stand up to their biggest competitors, Carmel and Brebeuf.

The girls came through in their season. Their desire and dedication gave them an edge on close matches. Their strength and talent made hard matches seem easy. Their hard work led them to become state champions.

Although a very young team, the girls played as if they had been on the team together for years. The team had one senior, Anju Gupta; the rest of the team was sophomores and freshmen. The girls respected each other even though no one had a dominant leadership role.

Track Number One

The boy's track team started the season off and running and didn't stop until they had crossed the finishline, capturing the 1992 Boy's State Title. The team, coached by Bruce Blomberg, worked hard all season. Senior Brian Tourner summed up the feeling of everyone at the state meet; "It was exhilarating for me and my teamates. We worked so hard all year to get there. It felt great."

Tourner, along with fellow senior, standout Tony Tate, created an exciting atmosphere at the state meet. Tate, with second place finishes in the 100 and 200 meter dashes, as well as running the anchor leg of the state champion 400-meter relay, helped account for 26 of the 44 points earned by the Panthers. Coach Blomberg feels that Tony is "an exceptional athlete and his loss is going to hurt, but we have a bunch of returning athletes, and hopefully they will be able to pick up the slack." One returning letterman will be Junior Jason Strayhorn, a fourth-place finisher in the shot put and a fifth-place finisher in the discus. His 11 points helped clinch the state title before the 1600-meter relay took center stage. The team considered NC's best scorched the competition, closing the state meet in exhilirating fashion by toasting the competition and winning the 1600-meter relay. With a good group of underclassmen returning, Coach Blomberg is very optimistic. As senior Teddy Seymour said, "We're going for the repeat next year."

E. Thorpe beats out the competition as he competes in the hurdle event.

Running Around

"Girls, go do two laps and a couple of stride-outs. Make sure you're warmed up properly." Two minutes remain before the race starts. Focus, concentration and determination run through her head. She waits at the line and looks ahead at the track in front of her. Sweat trickles down her body, due to her excitement and to the heat of the day. The starter holds the gun. "Runners, take your marks — get set — go!"

The girls' track team entered its season ready to learn, grow, and improve as a group. What guided the team was a very experienced and caring coaching staff. Leading the team were seniors Adria Collins, Shannon Cross, Michelle Freckleton, Andrea Henry, and Angee McKnight, who were strong leaders as well as strong competitors. Those girls were essential in guiding a very young team.

The girls set out to win the county and sectional meets and to qualify as many girls as possible to the state competition. The team was undefeated in its duel meet season. They won the county championship, but came up short at the sectionals. They had an impressive season overall, especially considering that the bulk of the team was underclassmen.

"The key to a successful track team is balance," said head coach Mr. McIntyre. "You need sprinters, distance runners, as well as people to do field events," he stated.

Next years team should have great success of the girls return with the desire to win and hard work in mind.

". . . as she gets closer to the end of her run, her heart beats faster. She decides to push her body to its ultimate limits. Her mind is more focused now than it has been throughout the rest of the race. Every muscle in her body strains with her every step. She realizes she has a chance to beat her opponent and decides to take it. She wants to get that extra edge; she gives the race her body and soul and crosses the finish line. She picks up her head, catches her breath, and notices at last the crowd of people running to congratulate her victory.

Batmen Return!

Do you remember at the end of last year, a sudden appearance of a two-winged flying animal gracing our halls, drawing the curious eyes of students? No, it wasn't the call for Batman to come save us, but rather the enthusiasm and spirit of the North Central Batmen! The team fittingly chose this symbol as their mascot to represent their strong, excited, and ready-to-go attitudes!

The team finished by winning sectionals, an accomplishment that they felt comfortable with. However, this year they would like to advance further, to regionals or semi-state. Alex Marsh stated that the state championship may not be a realistic goal, but that other teams need to watch out for us. With returning members David Leaman, Corey Pearson, Arti Angotti, Claude Warren, Corey Wright, Dan Overbeck, Shawn Eads, Will Hudson, and Jason Mintz, the team is bound to have a successful season. With good experience and a positive attitude, the Batmen are definitely a group to be watched.

Athletes, Scholars

Softball Team Demonstrates Many Talents

She walks out, grabs her bat, confidently steps up to the plate. She positions herself ready to bat. She squints at the pitcher, barely seeing a shadow. The crowd remains silent as the pitcher releases the ball. . .

Scholars, eager workers in the community, and dedicated hearts all in one fantastic team. Sound impossible? Not with the softball team coached by Mrs. Lynda McQuiston!

"They did a great job in being dedicated and communicating on and off the field," commented Mrs. McQuiston. This year the girls showed leadership and willingness to work and strive to reach their goals. Their goals for the season were not only to improve athletically but in academics as well. Laura McMullen and Shannon Denny, two of the senior leaders, achieved this goal by earning the Academic All-Star award. Other seniors were Karla Hampton and Brea Seach, who guided the team as well.

Coach McQuiston added, "They're as talented, as dedicated if not more and as knowledgeable as their competitors." The only problems the softball team had to face were their inexperience and their many injuries. As for this year, there are even higher expectations for not only an outstanding season, but for academic achievement as well.

. . .The ball reaches her and she swings her bat. With great skill and accuracy she hits the ball to the outfield, drops the bat, and runs the bases, reaching the plate again with the same confidence in her step, the same sun in her eye; yet this time the crowd is not so quiet.

Up to Par

The 1992 Boys' Golf team finished 14 and 2. Made up of Seniors Drew Alden, Mike Goldberg, Tony Wilks, Juniors Jason Brauer, Robert Burrows, Pat Hogan, Sophomores Blaine Dinwiddie, Scott Jacobson, Jason Rich, Aaron Radcliffe, Kevin Vernick, and Freshmen Steve Burrows and Greg Glassley, the team finished with the Marion County tournament under their belts, and with high hopes of getting to the state meet next year, according to coach John Freidersdorf. They faced a lack of experience at the start of the season, but they stuck together and improved. With three returning letterman next year, the players are optomistic about their future.

The girls' golf team took first place at county and sectional. The remarkable make up of sophomores Kimberly Barrett, Megan Feezle, Ann Hadley, and seniors Kristen Jacklin, Kelly Paul, and Nicole Slaughter led the Panthers to seven wins and two losses. Coach Joe Murphy took pride in his team and the girls' performances. With only six members, they enjoyed unity and lasting friendship.

The coach hopes that next fall more seniors will try out so that he can keep his reign of enthusiastic leadership. At the beginning of the year, the team was defeated by two of their main competitors: Anderson and Carmel. A tough sixth place finish in regionals ended the girls' dreams of going to State, but concluded their overall successful year. According to coach Murphy, even with the loss of three seniors, next year will be just as bright, if not brighter.

Tough Hoopsters

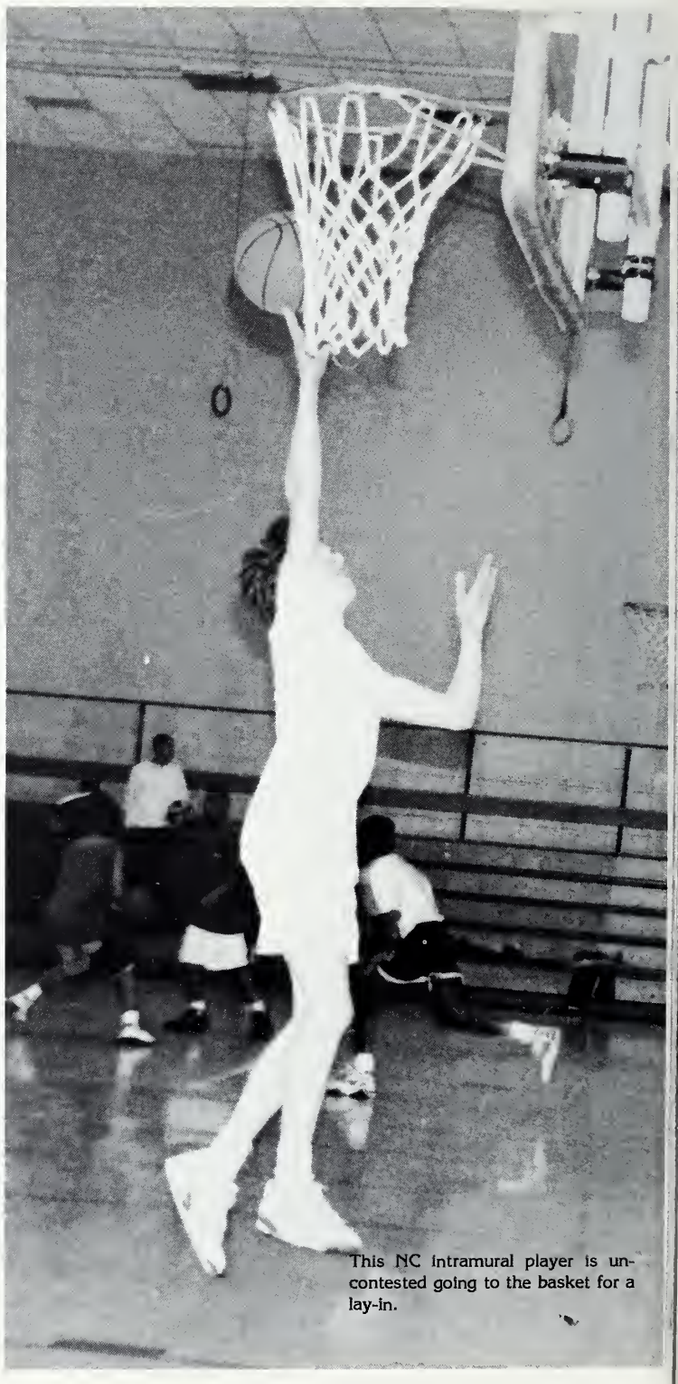

Juniors Brad Haxtrom, Jeremy Gray, and Morgan Nichols await a rebound.

Intramural basketball as we know it was nearly not existant three years ago. An outbreak of fights, a lack of funds, and no willing faculty supervisors made the future of this extracurricular activity doubtful. Enter Mr. Dave Mock and Mr. Paul Loggan, both members of the Athletic Department, both capable of revitalizing a program on the verge of extinction.

Today IM basketball serves as a highlight in an otherwise monotonous school week. It is common ground for the thrill of victory and agony of defeat and a haven for hoopstars. The intensity and excitement generated by this activity is evident in the team names like Tim Dogg and the Seven Rabbis, Enforcers, Knutneri, Proposition 48, Dream Team, Caucasion Invasion, and Leper Parts.

IM basketball is divided into three leagues, with the A-league containing the highest caliber of play with seniors. The B-league is comprised mostly of juniors, while freshmen and sophomores join the C- league. The A-league team championship was taken by Prop 48, the B-league by Running Things, and the C-league by The Chosen Few.

Winning Runners

Finishing third in the state tournament, the boys cross country team accomplished it's goals, which were established at the beginning of the season. They "took one meet at a time and didn't look too far ahead," according to Coach Rick Stovers. Concentration was focused primarily on the runners' individual and team improvements, as opposed to their competition. A couple of minor injuries limited their performance at times, but they didn't let that get them down.

As a matter of fact, the Panthers stuck together very well to beat Carmel 35-52 at the Cathedral Invitational, the highlight meet of the season. With strengths such as senior Nick Hammer an individual state runner-up; and great team depth, including eight members who could run in under 17 minutes, the Panthers also took the Marion County sectional and regional championships. In dual meets, their record was a fantastic 11-1.

Returning next year will be juniors Chris Runyan, Mitch Peterson, and sophomore Caden Taylor, all of whom ran in state this year. Junior Ted Stimpson, sophomore Joe McConkey, and junior Dan Ponder will also add to this talented group of atheletes. This year's seniors, who provided a strong leadership foundation, were Troy Tyner, Dan Standifer, Nick Hammer, and Kyle Griffith.

The boys' win over Carmel "made them believe that they could win state," says Coach Stover. With this attitude, and one terrific group of talented Panthers, the future definitely looks bright.

Step by Step!

Focus, determination, and desire are all characteristics of the girls' cross-country team. As a team the girls made great strides, from the begining of August until the state championship meet in November.

"It seems every team is unique and takes on its own characteristics as the season unfolds. The season had two stages, and the Marion County meet was the turning point," says Coach Steve McIntyre. "In the begining of the season, the girls knew that they had a good team, but knowing that 'good' was not all they could be, they worked hard to become even better."

Much of their success is credited to the seniors, Tracy Walter, Jessica Goodman, Sarah Coleman, Leah Plocharzyck, and Christine Pence. They showed incredible leadership skills and guided the team to become better runners and better people.

The team went through many tough times as well as lots of laughs. The experiences and growth brought them closer together and gave the team a family atmosphere.

The team had an undefeated record of 14-0. They pulled together at Sectionals and topped off their win at Regionals.

Many things that were accomplished and discovered during the season could apply to the rest of the girls' lives. However, the girls would have never had as memorable a time without "Coach Mac." He supported the girls in times when they needed help to focus or just to cheer them up. He was always there for them. The season could have never been as successful without him.

Playing On Top

"North Central Crushes Ben Davis!" With a headline like that the football team built up their spirits to finish the season with eight wins and three losses. According to Coach Al Harants, "The players worked hard and invested quality time into the program so that they could perform at a higher level."

Like all teams, this year's football squad had its share of strengths and weaknesses. Its strength was shown in the offensive lineup. The players scored an average of thirty points or more per game. A slight weakness was seen in the defense, but overall the coaches were very pleased with the team's performance. They had the proper work ethic.

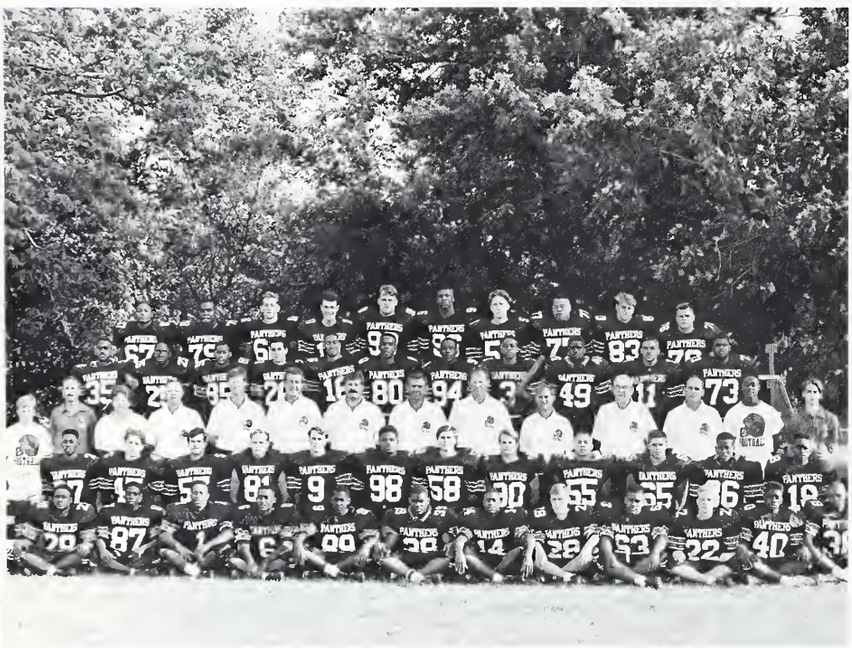

The big victory of the season against Ben Davis was a source of encouragement, but their regional defeat by BD "took the wind out of the sails," explained Harants. It was definitely a disheartening loss, one that ended a new beginning.

As for next year's hopes, the team looks good and bright. A great nucleus of the players are returning with years of experience. They will be much better off both offensively and defensively.

It was a thrilling first year for the new coach, and in his own words, "It was an enjoyable year for me and the team."

"Setting" it up!

Set! Spike! Slam! It sounded like a boxing match, but this time the competitors were quicker, and stronger. They fought their battles over a net instead of inside a ring.

The volleyball team slammed its way into a season that was action-packed. The team had a rough regular season, but they pulled together at the sectional and county tournaments against Park Tudor, Warren Central, and Lutheren. Leading the team were seniors Kalen Guffin, and Kris Long.

The season was a surprise to many because of the team's roller coaster matches and also because a new member was added to the team.

The new member, Coach Leanne Eustache, had her first season with the Lady Panthers, which went "the best it could have with an unfamiliar team," said Coach Eustache. She also says that "even through some rough times, their season was a lot of fun."

Squaring off against strong teams from all over the state, volleyball team members found themselves pulling together in order to wipe out their competitiors.

Next year the team will be determined to make a difference on the court; the team members have now put focus on their goals. With a more experienced team, mainly upperclassmen, they hope to prove their skill next season.

The team managed to put together a strong starting show on the court. With hard work, drive and determination, they're bound for success.

Kickn' It Up!

This year's boys' varsity soccer team ascended the ladder toward the state championship but was halted just one rung short. Coach Jerry Little's team blasted through the regular season, remaining one of the best teams in the state all year, and in the process posted an impressive 22-3-2 record. Led by senior captains Tchad Blair, Robert Butcher, and Justin Painter, the Panthers won the sectionals, captured regionals, and lost to Evansvile Memorial in the state finals. The Panthers had beaten the Memorial team earlier in the season, but Coach Little said that it was a different Evansville squad in the finals. "They really came to play. They were the toughest team we played all year," he commented. Columbus North, which the Panthers beat in the regional, was the teams best victory, according to Little. Despite the loss of some senior players, the team has a bright outlook on the future. It will return seven varsity lettermen next year. Sophomores Jamie Pettingill, Tony Harris, and James Prosser, Juniors Andrew Warden, Todd Walti, Eric Copsey, and Tommy Keenan, who kicked the winning goal of the semi-final game, will be returning next year to try for the state title once again. Reflecting on this season, Coach Little stated, "This year's team was an example of what hard work can do. Our success was a real credit to the players on the team and their determination."

The girls' soccer team coached by Lynn Schapp experienced a roller-coaster season. The year started off slowly with losses to Noblesville, Lawrence Central, Hamilton Southeastern and Carmel, but picked it up near the end of the season with wins against Center Grove, Cathedral, and Chatard. These three wins helped prepare the girls into an opening sectional match win against Hamilton Southeastern. The team then ended their season abruptly and unfortunately the way it began with a heart breaking loss to Noblesville. This years team was rich in experience and included nine seniors, led by Connie Ananais, Heather Cunningham, Kristen Florey, and Tracey Prosser. Coach Schapp was very pleased with the effort of the girls and felt they gave 100% all year. Despite some definite disappointments Coach Schapp and her players have little time to dwell on the past as they look forward to a bright future. Talented returning lettermen like juniors Leslie Walker, Tarie Bosso, and Becky Harding will help form a strong nucleus for next year's Lady Panthers.

Tennis Wins State

What do you get when you hand a racquet and ball to seniors Evan Harms, Andy Hammond, and Spencer Fields, juniors Andrew Held, Ryan Dorman, and John Hazlett, and freshman Adam Schumacher? You guessed it: the boys' tennis state champions! The team combined talent, experience and positive attitudes; beginning practice before the school year even started in order to achieve their success.

Finishing with a perfect 27-0 team record, the Panthers wanted to "reestablish NC as a tennis power," said Coach Byron Buckley. "Players worked hard and practiced hard. They are determined people who want to give their best effort."

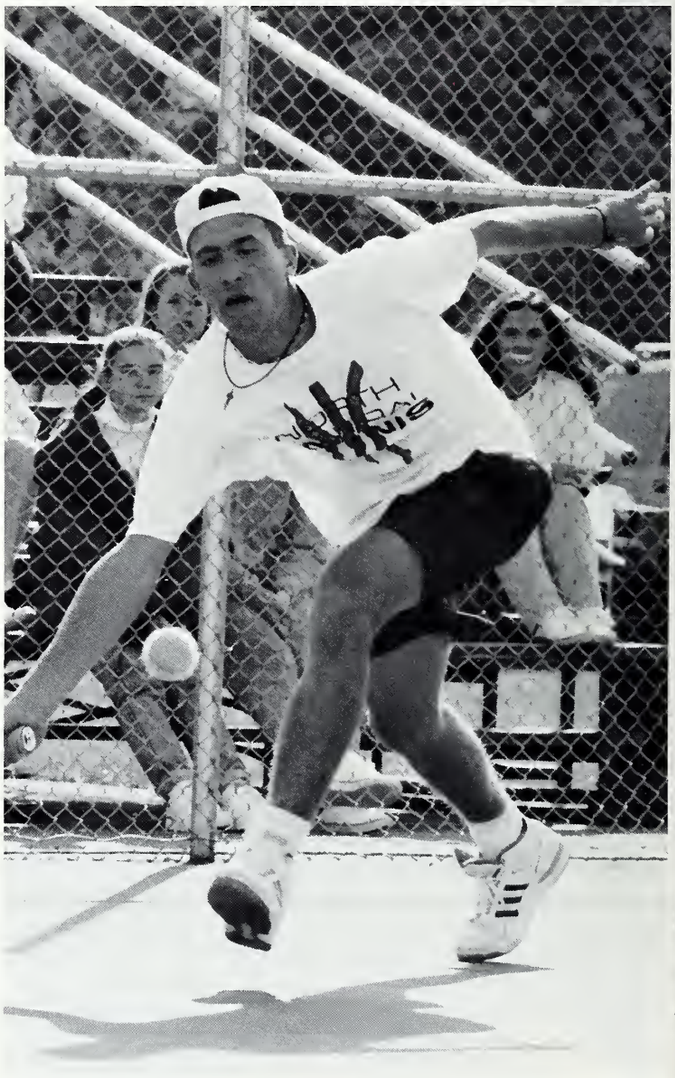

Along with the well-deserved state title, each team member has received many individual honors. Number-one singles player Evan Harms was named to the First Team All-Stars and was the singles champ of Marion County. Number-two singles player Andrew Held was named to the Third Team All-State and was the number-two singles runner-up of Marion County. Adam Schumacher finished third in Marion County. Hammond and Dorman were the state doubles champions, finishing with a 28-1 record, and were named the First Team All-State Doubles Team. Hazlett and Fields competed at number-two doubles and finished with a remarkable 25-0 record. Both pairs were the Marion County champions.

As for the future, Coach Buckley says that the competition will be tough. With three team members graduating this year, some top reserve players will be filling their spots. Already this year, reserve players freshman Nick Hammond and junior Jason Rich, got a taste of varsity competition. The future looks just as bright for the new varsity Panthers as it did for this year's state champs.

Splish, Splash!

From the first lap in the pool to the last inward dive, the girls' swim team strove toward its goals. They were geared towards a 11-1 dual meet season and the county championship, both of which were achieved. The only goals that were not conquered were recieving 5th place in State (they placed 10th) and crushing their rival Carmel Greyhounds.

According to Coach Mark Barnes, "The seniors were the main reason we have a record of 44-4 over the last four years. Next year will definitely be a rebuilding year. There will be a lot of pressure to accomplish what the seniors have done the last four years. However, the team has a good nucleus of returning juniors that will continue the swimming tradition."

The girls bonded and grew together like a family during their long bus rides to faraway cities. Friendships that will last a lifetime were made through singing (and of course gossiping) on the way home after meets. The girls proved to form a close-knit unit by always remembering the word "team."

The strongest swimmers on the team who placed in the State meet were seniors Emily Maxwell and Melissa Sullivan. The dominant divers were senior Valerie Black and startling freshman Gretchen Bigsby. They led the team on to victory, and all others followed the set path to success.

"Basketball players are made in the summer, teams are made in the winter," comments Coach Steve Coffman. This winter, the Panthers have been working on making a team with their young and unexperienced players. The team experienced severe losses of Seniors David Leaman, guard/forward and Eric Allen, forward; Junior Tommy Keenan, forward; Leaman and Allen were starters for the Panthers. They also lost Senior Jay Price during cuts.

Junior Brian Price's leadership helped to pull the team together and lead them to a few victories. Freshman Dozzle Adams helped with his determination and his unwillingness to give up.

"All the team needs now is a few wins to help lift their spirits up," remarked Coach Coffman. "This season is very different than last year."

The outlook is good for years to come. Coach Coffman summed up by saying, "In two years, we'll be riding high and back on top again."

High Hoops

The girls' basketball team had a very successful season filled with completed goals and other accomplishments. The team, coached by Miss Melissa Brown, won the Sectional Championship. This team also bounced back from the loss of teammate Mindy Boelhke, and has dedicated this winning season to her memory.

Through dedication, preparation, and hard work, this team has arrived at an exceptional 16-7 record behind the play of a veteran starting five. This year's starting five is comprised totally of seniors Cara Johnson, Shannon MacPhearson, Sheila MacPhearson, Kindra Lile, and Julie Schuster. They had help from fellow senior Anne LaRue and a young supporting cast comprised mostly of sophomores. Through teamwork, this group of young ladies has earned the right to advance to the Regionals after a surprise defeat of longtime rival Brebeuf. Brebeuf has long been a thorn in the side of the Lady Panthers, eliminating them from Sectionals last year, but this new group was more determined and avoided the errors of their last season.

The future is bright, with many players returning next year. "North Central is a very young team. The players will mostly be juniors next year, and they have already learned to work together, and know how to win," said Coach Brown, who is looking forward to continued success with the reborn Lady Panthers. This young group of players will lose the nucleus of a good team, but with time, youth, and hard-work on their side, they will retain their winning way.

Tough Guys Top It

Members of the wrestling team went into the 1992-1993 season with a common goal. That goal was to advance as many wrestlers as possible to the state championships. After the smoke cleared from an up-and-down year, four wrestlers made it to state.

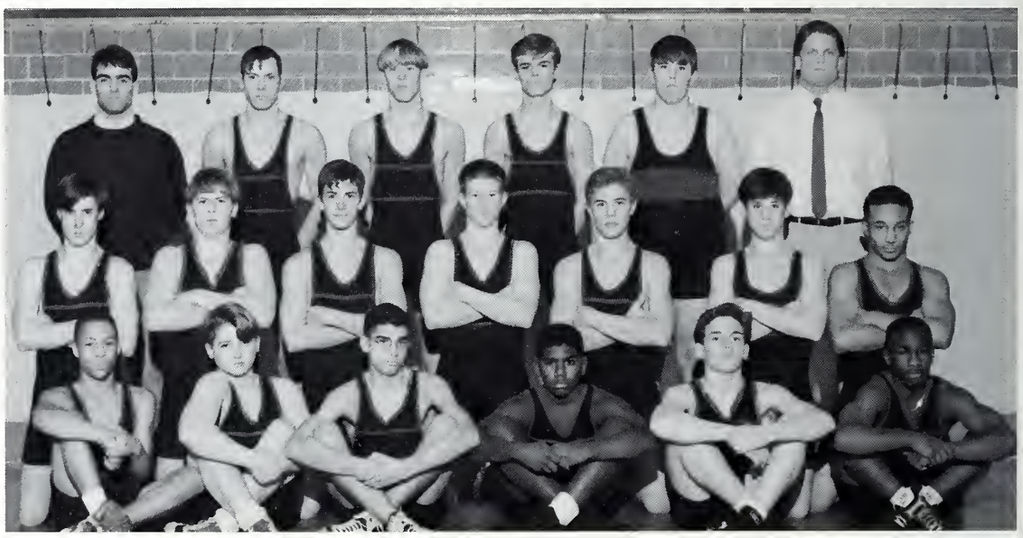

This year's squad benefitted from the strong leadership of several seniors. John Pendleton, Mark Wood, Thunder Grimes, Bill Day, Brian Williams, Nate Nicholas, and Brian Vogel all contributed their individual talents and experience and, in the process, helped to unify the team.

The team started off slowly but eventually caught fire and ended the season with a flury of wins. The team's 9-8 overall record is misleading for five losses came at the hands of ranked teams.

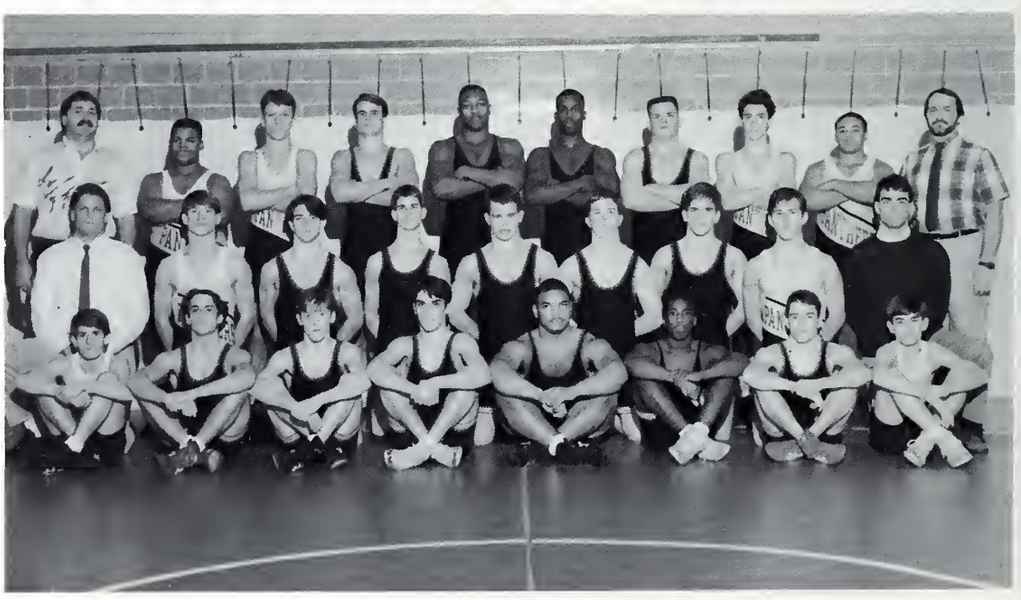

This year's promising finish, coupled with incoming talent, has the coaches and returning wrestlers excited about next season. When asked to comment on next year's squad, Coach Paul Loggan stated, "We'll be a young team with only three seniors. What we lack in experience, we'll make up for in determination and strength."

Desire, dedication, loyalty, and committment. These were words commonly used to describe the 1992-1993 North Central wrestling team.

Caught in the Tide

The boys swim team is building itself up for the next few years. The record of two wins, five losses, and one tie in their dual meets doesn't really reflect what is going on behind the blocks at the pool. There are a lot of new, unexperienced team members who will become star team members with time and training.

Seniors Steve Jones, Brian Beck, Jason Lambert, and Chris Jewell, along with a strong sophomore class, helped lead the Panthers to a third place finish in the County.

Diving was a strong point, with senior Jason Lambert and junior Josh Ramsey winning the diving events in many of the Panthers' dual meets. A new addition to the diving squad was the coach, Mr. Ray Porter. Coach Porter has helped turn around the diving program with additional dive difficulty and quality.

Goals are centered around individual improvement in stroke technique, turns and overall speed. With each swimmer concentrating on his growth, the whole team will benefit.

Their fourth place finish at the quadrangular meet at the Natatorium (against Carmel, Lake Central, and Ben Davis) was a disappointing loss for the Panthers, but it gave individuals a chance to see how well they stacked-up against some of the best swimmers in the state. Several Panthers made finals at this very competitive meet.

Coach Bill Powell is confident that there is potential for scoring points at State, but he is unsure how the team will finish overall.

All in all, the team is working hard and looking forward to even greater seasons to come.

"Hey, fire up and cheer! NCHS is here!," yell the enthusiastic cheerleaders. As the cheerleaders jump with spirit, the Pantherettes dance, and the color guards wave their flags, the NC crowd is fired up at the games!

Like every summer, the cheerleaders went to cheer camp at Ball State University. Senior Lesa Leander, juniors, Rachel Ayres, and Donita Walker won the All-American Cheerleading Award. The squad won all blue ribbons, the team award, and a bid to return to nationals in Dallas, Texas. They chose to take a break from nationals this year, but have promised to return next year. Their focus this year is to cheer on the top teams. Leander said, "It is so neat to be able to cheer for such great teams that go so far towards state my senior year!"

The Pantherettes went to camp at Indiana University over the summer, as well. They took all blue ribbons and won Best Dance Group! Jenny Holloway, junior, won a special award for her awesome dancing ability. These girls proved to be a whole new team, dominating the field and court at halftime.

The Color Guard looked as sharp as ever when proudly performing to the music of the band. A strong sense of unity in the group led to great performances.

Flippin' Out

"We are doing really well for not having a 100 percent healthy team," said Mrs. Vicki Right, the new coach of this year's gymnastics team. This season there have been a lot of injuries which have created a challenge for the team.

This year has been a different situation than last year. There have been more new people to the team than returning ones. But despite this, they have been able to put together a complete squad. Another change from last year, is that the former assistant coach, Mrs. Right, is now head coach. Coach Right, a member of the gymnastics club in high school, has coached other sports, such as volleyball, but found her place here as assistant coach last year. And this year, due to Mrs. Kurt Benjamins resignation, she has come back as head coach.

Junior co-captain Margie Schaffer has been the top scorer on the team this year. This position that might have been held by senior co-captain Kathy Hunter had injuries not prevented it.

A definite challenge has been the development of new leadership!" said Coach Right. "Margie has had to take on a new role of leadership." Despite the challenges to the team this year, they have had a good season. Said Coach Right, "if the nucleus of the team comes back and injuries are recovered, the team should be very strong next year."

TOPPING IT ALL OFF

Organizations

What happens at 3:10 in the afternoon on every weekday? Yes, school is out for the day, the parking lot gets emptier, and the buses leave, but that's not all that happens. Some dedicated students don't make a run for their cars at the sound of the bell; they stay after school for one of our many clubs and organizations. On any weekday, there could be Science Club, DECA, and Black Student Union meetings, to name a few. Organizations like the Key Club and the Environmental Club devote themselves to service projects like can drives and trash pick-up days. Some students even attend school functions on weekends; members of many academic teams frequently have to arrive at school at 6 a.m. on Saturdays to travel to competitions at other sites. Most of us are not content to float through high school; we want to take an active part in school activities. Our classes alone are not enough; by participating in extracurricular activities, we're TOPPING IT ALL OFF.

Student Leadership at its best

Student Council has accomplished many great tasks in the past, including persuading the school board to keep half days for semester testing. This year one of the biggest tasks of Student Council was keeping the student body full of spirit. Many people doubted the amount of spirit NC would have, with Dr. Eugene White gone. Shame on those people. Do they think Dr. White was the spirit of the student body? We create our own spirit. And we have done a nice job, thank you very much.

President Ezra Houser helped keep our school spirit alive by participating in many fun and delicious activities, namely the 'who can get the most food on them in 30 seconds' contest, during the Homecoming pep session.

Student Council sponsors many things throughout the school year, not just school spirit. They were responsible for Homecoming Dance, spirit week leading up to the big game, and various other Homecoming activities. Student Council also runs the Centralfest, where the students have great fun participating in activities, such as throwing pies at our teachers. Student Council also sponsors the NC Grand Prix, the ultimate in bike racing. Student Council as usual kept up the hard work this year, serving the students.

Seniors and Juniors in Action

As the years add up, so do the responsibilities for Senior and Junior Class Council. Senior Class Council has a great load on their shoulders, besides turning in college applications on time. They have the exciting but the 'want to make you tear out your hair' responsibilities of organizing and pulling off Senior Bonfire, Senior blood drive, Senior class shirts, and most important of all Senior Grad Dance and Blast Off.

Junior Class Council also has some hefty responsibilities in dealing with Junior Spectacular and the big Kahuna, Junior Prom. Junior year is one of the most exciting, thanks to Junior Class Council.

Both Councils contribute a great deal to the social aspect of North Cental. Juniors and Seniors should be commended.

Starting Out Right!

Throughout North Central, there are many councils; Freshman and Sophomore councils provide many activities and fund raisers.

Freshman class council helps the newcomers get adjusted to the school, while organizing activities such as the 8th grade orientation party. They are responsible for designing and distributing class T-shirts. But over all, Freshman Class Council helps freshmen to get adjusted and make new friends.

The Sophomore Class Council doesn't have a vast amount of work to do, but they do it well. They organize and sell classs rings, besides deciding upon them. They also sponsor and raise money for the Valentines Day mixer.

Honor Societies of NC

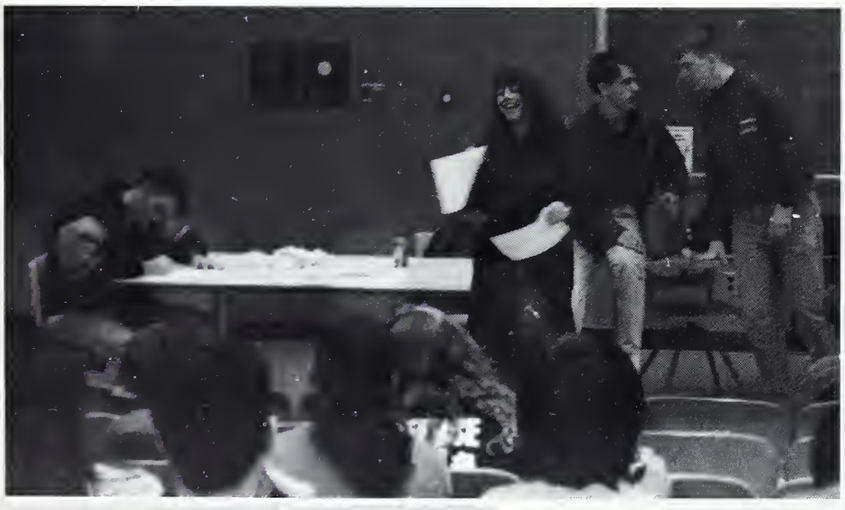

Belonging to one of North Central's honor societies is a very prestigious thing. The students who are members are dedicated to their studies as well as their community. An added benefit is the fact that membership looks great on college applications.

To become a member of National Honor Society you need to have a cumulative grade point average of a 3.2 and at least four merits. The members are encouraged to perform community service such as peer tutoring in the Learning Center. National Honor Society meets about every two weeks. The sponsor is Miss Katie Merkal. The members are inducted in the spring of their junior year; with meetings starting the fall of their Senior year.

Spanish Honor Society is also another prestigious organization. To become a member of Spanish Honor Society, a student needs to have almost all A's in Spanish. Spanish Honor Society usually meets once or twice a month. They discuss cultural events and diversities of Spanish-speaking countries. They also spend hours helping other Spanish students by tutoring. The sponsor of Spanish Honor Society is Miss Edra Staffieri.

Environmental Awareness

The Evergreen Club.

We have poisoned her seas, and destroyed her forests. We filled her with disease . . . Mother Earth is crying out. At a time when it is almost too late, we have finally begun to hear her shrieks. Evergreen Club is one of the organizations that is dedicated to the environmental cause. The members of Evergreen Club have raised the consciousness of the people in the community.

"I think we're making people more aware than they were before. We have opened a lot of eyes," says Beth Tobin, junior. "Even those people who don't come out and participate in our activities are begining to do other things that help, such as re-using lunch bags or putting used paper in recycling boxes."

Making History In Indiana

The world revolves around history. Educating ourselves about the past makes it easier for us to understand the future. This is why the Junior Historical Society is so involved in its activities.

President, senior, Joe Bruce, planned various activities in order to further explore the history of Indiana and the rest of the country. One of the group's highlights for this year was the trip taken to see different locations along the Underground Railroad. This experience not only helped members take a break from the usual learning process, but also helped them visulize what they learned about the Civil War era.

The sponsor, history teacher Mr. Bill Gulde, was very pleased with the performance and enthusiasm of this year's group.

Enriching The History

"Black Student Union is a key element in furthering my knowledge of my ethnical background," says Junior Michael Jackson.

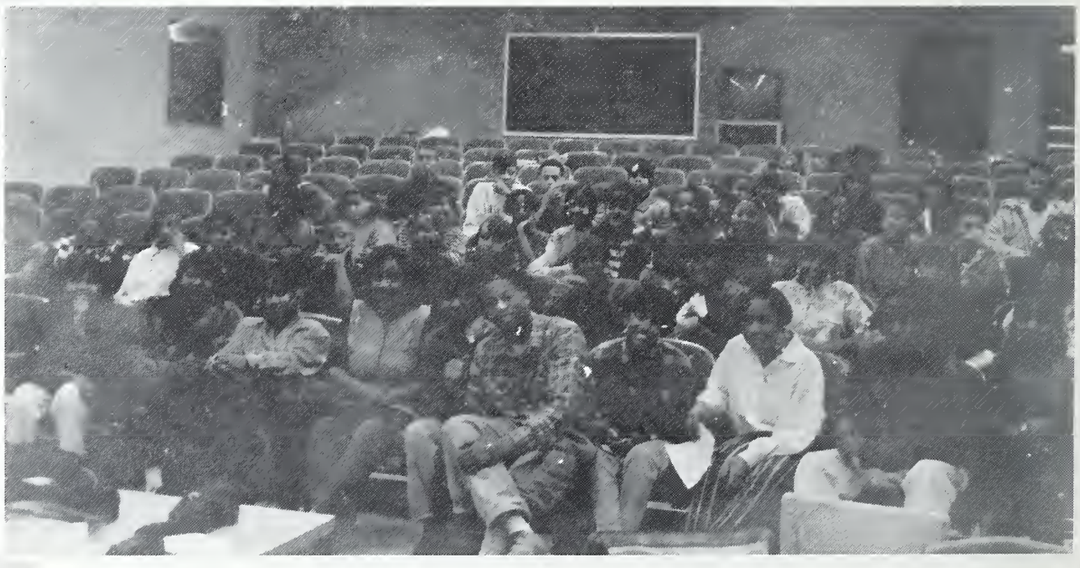

During the past year the Black Student Union has continued to play an active role in North Central student life. It has emphasized goals for itself, including the recognition of black culture, the importance of black history and the easing of racial tensions within the school as well as the community. The Black Student Union has encouraged the entire student body to have a greater appreciation of black history month by keeping the student body aware of the many contributions of black culture to the United States. Black Student Union is open to all North Central students regardless of ethnic background or race.

Having Fun Through Science

Science Club has really taken off this year. With its membership expanding, they were able to have more fun. Science Club is open to all students interested in science and having a good time. It makes no difference what science you are enrolled in.

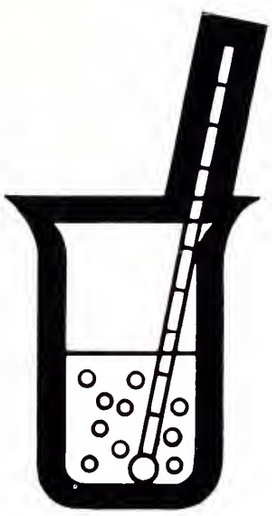

Science Club plans many exciting field trips throughout the year, such as going on nature hikes in State Parks. They also have meetings after school, to discuss new and interesting developments in the field of science.

New members are always welcome, and are encouraged to join in on the fun. Just listen for the announcements for more information.

Brain Power

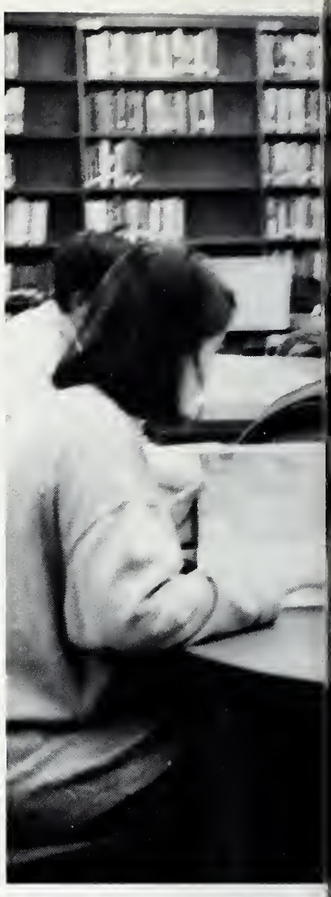

North Central has a wide array of academic teams which students are encouraged to participate in. These include the Academic Decathlon, the Science Olympiad, and the Brain Game teams.

The Academic Decathlon team is nine people strong. They compete in one practice meet, then district, state, and national competition. The Decathlon is composed of ten events: Economics, Math, Social Sciences, Science, Fine Arts, Language and Lit., Speech, Interview, Essay, and Super Quiz. The Academic Decathlon team practices every Tuesday evening and is led by coach,Mr. David Fruits.

The Science Olympiad team is also a small team that participates in competition around the state. They put their knowledge to the test about topics related to science. Chemistry, physics, and biology are the main subjects covered. The sponsor of Science Olympiad is Mr. Guy Konkle.

The Brain Game team is a group of four students who, which, as the title suggests, use their brain powers to compete against other teams on television. Mr. Andrew Wiggins is the sponsor of Brain Game. Watch for them on T.V.!

Key Club: The "key" to success!

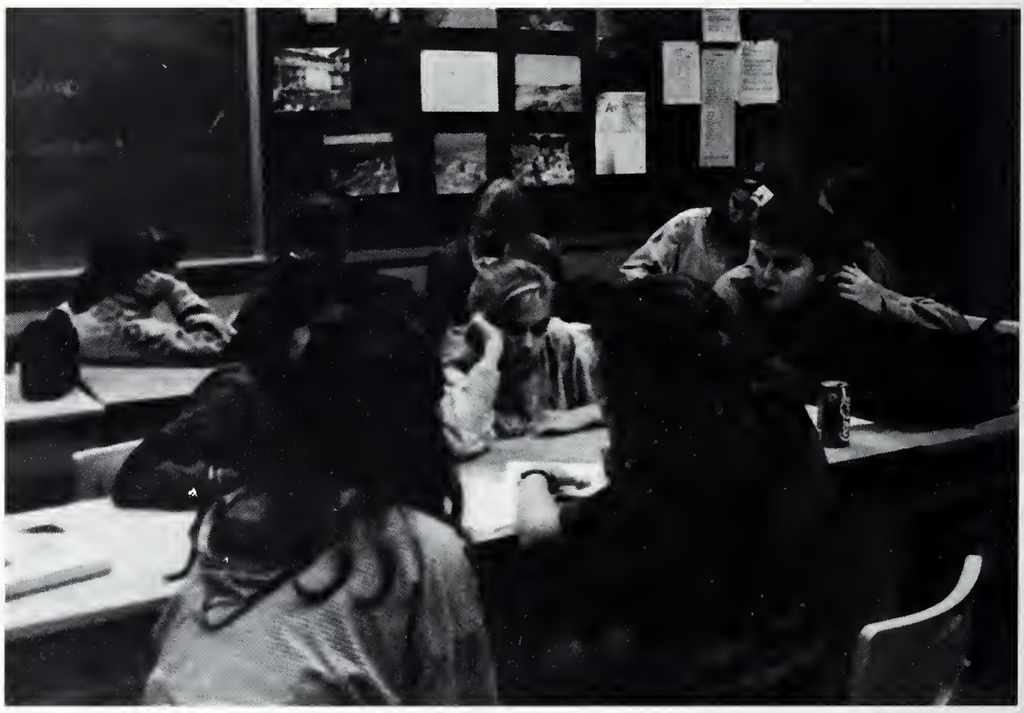

Key Club is a social-action organization sponsoring activities to better and help the lives of others.The Key Club plays a very important role in the lives of students. Key Club is an organization that is geared towards students helping out in the community. It is open to students of all grade levels, who have a serious interest in helping others.

Key Club members are involved in several activies during the year, the most important being the Can Food Drive. The club encourages competition between classes and homerooms to see who can collect the most canned goods. Again this year, the Can Food Drive was successful. It uplifted many needy families' spirits during the holiday season.

Key Club encourages new faces to attend the meetings. Key Club can always be strengthened by partcipation.

Cultural Experiences

The Spanish Club started out their year with food, fun, and games as they celebrated "El Dia de Los Muertos", or The Day of the Dead. This year the new Spanish Club sponsors are Ms. Ellis and Mrs. Webster. Their ultimate goal is to make Spanish Club the most popular club at NC. They meet once a month to plan out new activities, elect officers, and to have a great time. The Spanish Club participates in several events including an annual competition, called Joe Mason Day.

Spanish Club is open to all NC students enrolled in Spanish as a foriegn language. It is a place to meet new people, who have a common interest in Spanish. Spanish Club has an important role in teaching students about Spanish culture and life. All levels may partcipate, and are encouraged to do so.

Speaking In New Languages

Our foreign language clubs are among the many organizations offered to students here. The French Club meets to watch French movies and eat popcorn, which is why it is also called "Le-Cine (movie) Club." The French Club is sponsored by Mrs. Anne Leonard.

The Chinese Club, whose sponsor is Mrs. Jennie Chao, took a trip to Indiana University and sat in on a Chinese class. Members of the Hebrew Club learn culture in depth by singing songs, reading stories, and eating food. The Hebrew Club is sponsored by Mr. Joseph Cohen.

Making The Deadline

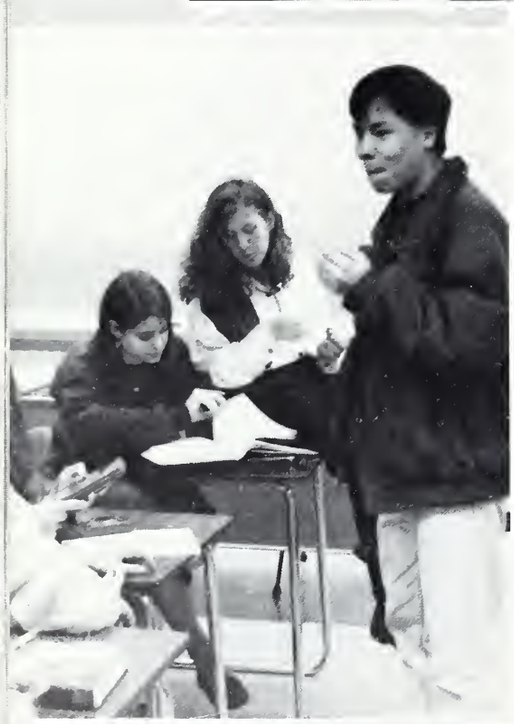

Staffers are frantically typing at computers while editors pull their hair out from stress. Is this a mad house, you ask? Not quite; this is room G610, home of The Northerner and The Northern Lights. The staffs of these publications are given the freedom to do work when they want to, so they must also learn to take responsibility for their actions. Staff members often need to work during class, lunch periods, and even on weekends.

Even before school starts, the staff of both the publications are working hard. Several staff members of The Northerner and The Northern Lights spend one week out of summer at the High School Journalism Institute at Indiana University. During the week, the students listen to lectures, write articles, and make layouts. This experience gets students ready for a year of hectic deadlines and frantic work.

French Honor Society

Parlez-vous Francais? Mais Oui, says the French Honor Society. The French Honor Society is an honorable organization to be part of.

The criteria for becoming a member is to maintain an A-average in honors French courses. Some members compete at state-wide competetions to be recognized for their linguistic abilities.

The faculty coordinators of French Honor Society are French teachers, Mrs. Kaaren Rodman and Mr. George Screes. They devote their time and effort to better the skills of the members as well as help make the organization available to students.

Senior member, Kristi Lewis, says "French Honor Society helps strengthen my French speaking skills and allows me to become more in touch with the language."

In addition to the respect and noteriety that the members recieve they also get a nifty certificate to place in their scrapbooks. Remember travaille dur, parle francais!!!

Almost Professional

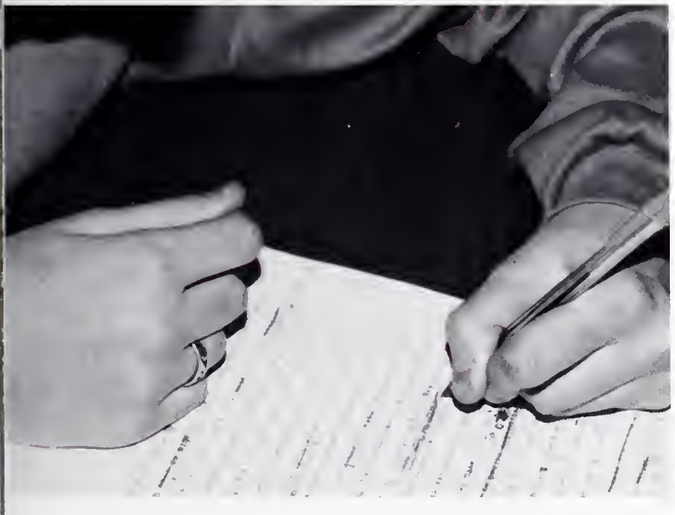

The members of Quill and Scroll, Adam Newton, Josh Robinson, Jeremy Jaskunus, Kristen Kasper, Stacy Notaras, and Audra Hodgin.

In the long run, a little extra effort often pays off. Two examples of this effort are the Quill and Scroll Society and the Etchings in Thought Editorial Board. The Quill and Scroll Society is a national student journalistic honorary society, much like the National Honor Society. Quill and Scroll recognizes students who have made outstanding contributions to either of our publications, the Northern Lights or the Northerner. "Right now we are trying to establish a foundation for a more active Quill and Scroll next year," says senior member,Amy Rauscher.

Etchings in Thought is the annual literary magazine. There are twelve members on the Editorial Board for Etchings and they meet after school on Tuesdays. During the meetings, the members read through packets of submissions and vote whether or not to accept each submission.

A PEAK PERFORMANCE

Performing Arts

Dolly Gallagher (senior Amy Rauscher), decked out in sequins and feathers, sashays past her doting admirers, accompanied by the sounds of the pit orchestra in the fall musical. A Drama I student agonizes over the first scene he has ever performed. A soloist in the King's Court Singers (junior Angela Schmetzer) silences the audiences with "O, Holy Night" at the Holiday Musical Program. Amidst a bevy of balloons, the Symphony Orchestra plays children's pieces at the annual Tootsie Pops Concert in March. Dozens of singers sweat through summer rehearsals for Counterpoints. Stage crew members work late hours after school preparing props and scenery for upcoming productions. All these students make up what is probably our most widely-seen department — Performing Arts. Involvement in our productions or performance groups requires hours of commitment after school and even on weekends. This devotion outside of the classroom is what makes the Performing Arts Department able every time to put on

Hello, Dolly!

The theater season opened in magnificent fashion with the fall musical production Hello, Dolly!. A large cast, wonderful dancers, and outstanding singers made Hello, Dolly!, directed by Mr. Phillip A. Lineback, a splendid success. It is the story of the quest of Mrs. Dolly Gallagher Levi (senior Amy Rauscher) to marry esteemed Yonkers businesssman Horace Vandergelder (junior Benjamin Fronczek). Dolly, meddlesome but helpful, has advice and information on all imaginable topics. Along the path of courting Horace, Dolly helps many unassuming people. First, Dolly successfully matches Ambrose Kemper (senior Allan McClendon) with Ermengarde (junior Kathy Minarik), Horace's niece. Later, Dolly matches two adventurous employees of Horace's, Cornelius Hackl (senior David Laros) and Barnaby Tucker (sophomore Jonathan Gardner) with Irene Molloy (seniors Renee Landers and Megan Wilson) and Minnie Fay (freshman Kim Blair). Hello, Dolly! was a masterfully performed play that showcased talented students. It was a triumphant opening for the year's theater productions.

Little Shop of Horrors

Little Shop of Horrors, directed by Mr. Phil Lineback, was performed as the spring play. It begins with a shy young man named Seymour (class of 1992 Josh Prince), who works on a small flower shop owned by Mr. Mushnik (class of 1992 Dann Shanley). Seymour has great dreams of success that start coming into focus when he discovers a unique plant (voice by junior Brian Tyson). Seymour names this wonderful plant Audrey II, after the girl he loves, Audrey (class of 1992 Amy Gerkensmeyer and junior Wendy Parker). Seymour's beloved plant unexpectedly grows larger and larger, feeding countinuously on other peoples blood. After having to kill, Seymour realizes he has made a mistake in feeding this ferocious plant. Unfortunately, Seymour's discovery is too late; the plant cannot be stopped. Seymour's success is slowly crumbling before his eyes. His love interest in Audrey doesn't end very happily; the hungry plant makes a feast of Audrey, and Seymour leaps into the plant soon afterwards. Despite its unhappy ending, Little Shop of Horrors was a great final theater production thanks to fine vocal and dramatic performances.

Almost every winter production follows the same basic format for a normal play. However, Love, Death, and the Prom was rather different; it was a compilation of ten short plays directed by students. The student directors and the plays they presented were: class of 1992 Holly Gregory, "Stress Test," junior Carissa Potenza, "Reverse English," class of 1992 Joshua Prince, "Commercial Break," class of 1992 Angela Kates, "Logical Conclusions," junior Kyle Thomas, "Millions," senior Lisa Swanger, "Cheating," class of 1992 Dann Shanley, "Nightstream," class of 1992 Amy Gerkensmeyer, "The Rules," junior Susan Foster, "Prom," and junior Christi Jutte, "Graduation Dreams." Holly Gregory wrote two original plays, "Stress Test" and "Graduation Dreams." Mrs. Holly Rice was the faculty coordinator. The goal of Love, Death and the Prom was to have the largest possible number of student participants and to heighten appreciation of our performing arts students. The production of Love, Death and the Prom showed that our talented students have great creativity and imagination.

King's Court

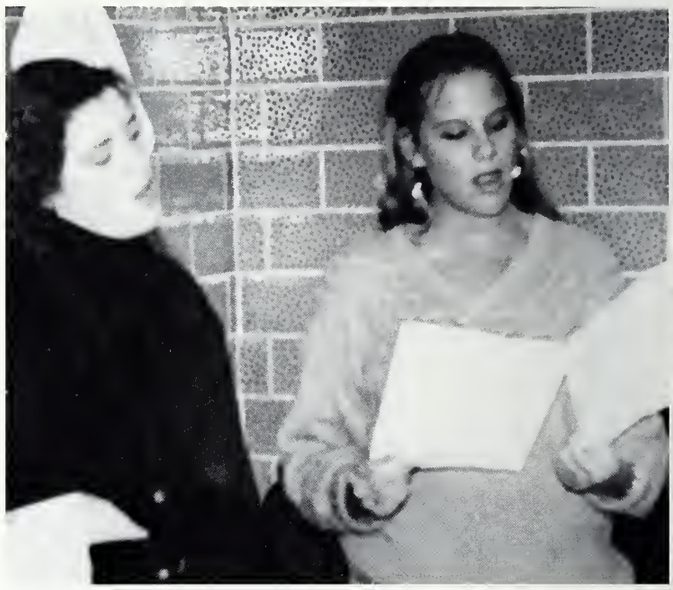

King's Court, one of our school's finest choirs, is definitely diverse. Directed by Mr. Phillip Carey, King's Court is comprised of many of the best voices in the school.

Members dress in medieval costumes and perform pieces in both Latin and English. King's Court members are dedicated to the pieces they sing and to our school. Their dedication is shown when they perform.

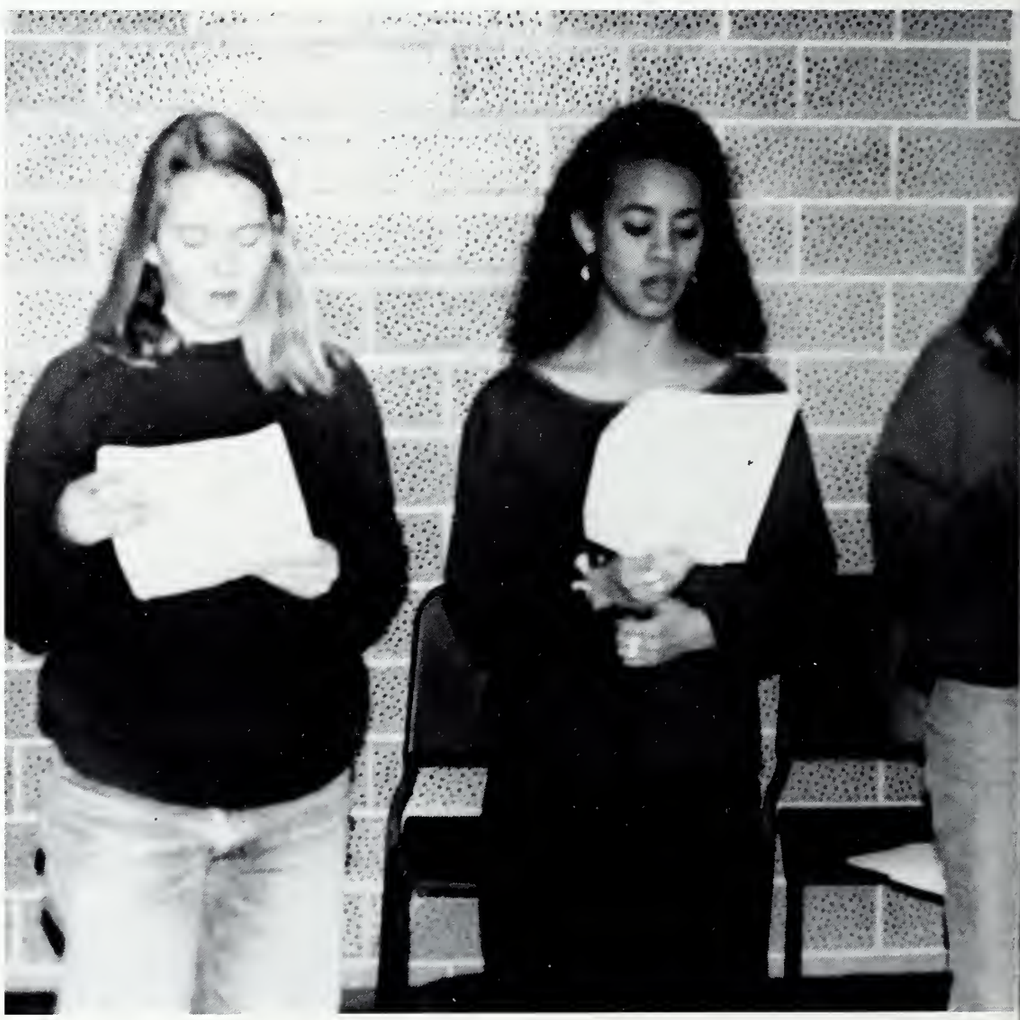

Senior Miya Winn explains, "I like King's Court because you make a lot of wonderful friends and the outfits are really nifty," she says.

They perform in school programs along with community programs. They participated in a competition in Washington, D.C. at the Kennedy Center last year. King's Court is best known for the annual Madrigal Dinner. This dinner gives King's Court members the perfect opportunity to show off their talented voices, determination, and hard work that is put into all of their performances.

When asked why Counterpoints is such a special choir, junior Olaf Blase says, "We are special because we are a show choir and we can sing all different types of music."

Senior Heather Hooten says, "We all are really close because we spend so much time together. We have to get to know each other personally to be comfortable to perform together." They have ranked as the number one concert choir in Indiana for three consecutive years. The choir has an annnual Counterpoints Dinner Show at Beef and Boards and a Christmas Show. Also, they have been invited to perform at the national show choir competition, Showstoppers, in Chicago, in which they received sixth place last year.

Symphony Orchestra

Question: If you are looking for the state's best high school orchestra, where would you find it? Answer: Right here. The Symphony Orchestra has reigned as the state's best for the past four years. Under the leadership of conductor Mr. Richard Dennis, the orchestra has become the best in the state and has earned a reputation nationally.

What is the orchestra's goal for this year? Senior Jonathan Davis professes, "In Symphony Orchestra, our goal has been and will always be to have a fine orchestra first. If we work hard and do our best, then the state championship will come along with everything else." In addition, senior Boris Umansky asserts, "We would like to be state champions. This year we lost many seniors and it will be more difficult to achieve this goal, but I think it's possible."

Wind Ensemble

For the first time in over 30 years, a new face is heading the school's band program. Mr. Jay Gephart has replaced the retired Mr. Samuel Rhinesmith. Along with this change come new prospects for Symphonic Wind Ensemble, Concert and Freshman Bands. Throughout the year, members work for continued improvement and ultimately the state band contest. The bands plan numerous performances, including the annual Winter Pops concert and the Fine Arts Festival, in eye of improving the main sections of instruments: woodwinds, brass, and percussion. Many students have been awarded for their improvement by being part of All-State Band and other honorary organizations.

As a result of a new director and hard work, the goals the students have set for band are high. Sophomore Amanda Baldwin exclaims that the ensemble's goal is to "go to state (contest) and show what we can do!" However, director Mr. Gephart asserts, "We don't want the prize of winning to be the most important element of our program. If we focus on musical excellence, that (winning) will come."

RISING TO THE TOP

Album

Every freshman has stumbled through our halls at one time, completely lost; we all must spend an entire year learning the ropes (and the hallways) and figuring out how much we can get away with. Nothing can hasten the way into . . .

Sophomore year. These placeless youngsters wander the school in search of a purpose. They don't have to worry about college yet, but they can't ignore school anymore. Grade ten is a limbo where all must spend time before moving on to . . .

Junior year, which offers chances new activities like Junior Spec. During this year the long process of taking tests and selecting schools begins. The only real desire juniors have is finally to pass on to . . .

Senior year, the climax of high school. In the fall, seniors must apply to college and worry about financial aid. After January, though, a senior's goals are different; since these GPA's are never seen, a senior's studies go out the window on the first sunny day of spring. We justify this by all the hard work done as we're

RISING TO THE TOP.

By Audra Hodgin

This group of seniors awaits acknowledgment during the Academic Recognition Program. This academic ceremony was the first of its kind presented by the administration.

It all stacks up to a good year for Carl Sputh and Ridley Stone right before the Spring Dance.

Scott Stonebraker and Jen Carpenter share the magic of the Junior Prom.

Class of '93

Kobie Johnson heads to class through the Student Center

Josh Hollingsworth, Brock Nolan, and Dr. Bill Broderick demonstrate summer-time male bonding.

Bernadette Tharpe, Andrea Qualitza, and Megan Niles encorporate body language into their Repertory Theater rehearsal.

Junior Spectacular

CAB + LSOTP + SFAH + TPAG = SPECTACULAR!

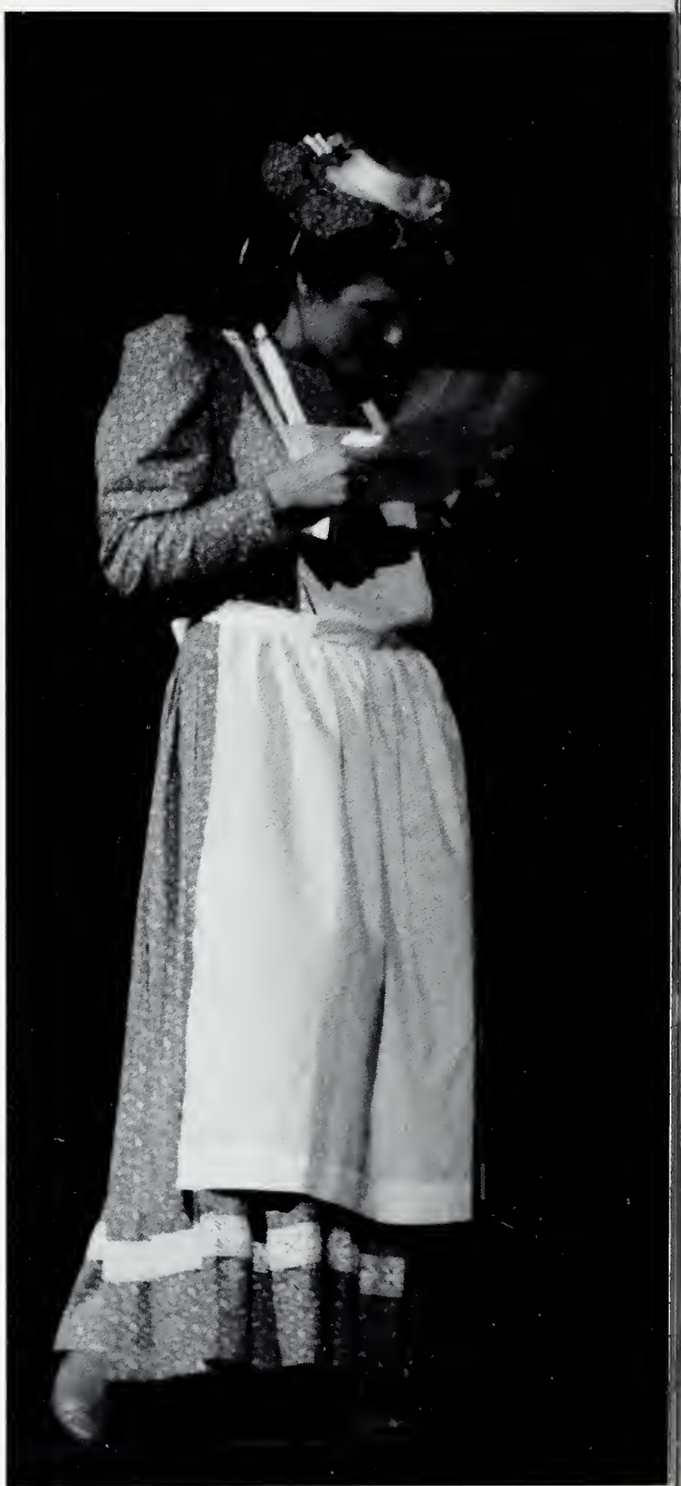

This year's Junior Spectacular proved yet again that Juniors are the best! The four acts, Crash and Burn, Scenes From a Hall, These People Are Gods, and Little Spouse On the Prairie, displayed the talent and creativity of the writers and participants.

Each act had a unique storytime and can be categorized as comedy or musical. Crash and Burn, written by Eric Bonning, Josh Shannon, and Jeremy Witham, and sponsored by Mr. Harris, follows the adventures of Kyle, Eddie, and Joey as they travel to Broadway to perform a play written for their junior class. Scenes From a Hall, written by Erin Lineback, and Meghan Zimmerman, and sponsored by Mrs. BeGuhn, tells the story of NC's wooden panels and the terrazzo symbol. These People Are Gods, a comedy about modern day Mt. Olympus and the Greek Gods, was written by Greg Kalleres, Amy Astley, and Ben Eble, and sponsored by Dr. Broderick. Little Spouse on the Prairie, a story of true love in the Old West, was written by Heather McDaniel, David Sasso, and Emily Rogge, and sponsored by Mrs. Krohn.

All of the acts brought something special to Spec this year, but nothing would have gone on if it hadn't been for Mr. Lord and the student coordinators, Erin Brown and Carrie Havel. Congratulations to all who participated in Spec for helping to make it Spectacular!

Kelly Notaras, who played the lead of Maggie in Little Spouse, anxiously reads her letter from Willy's Western Wifery.

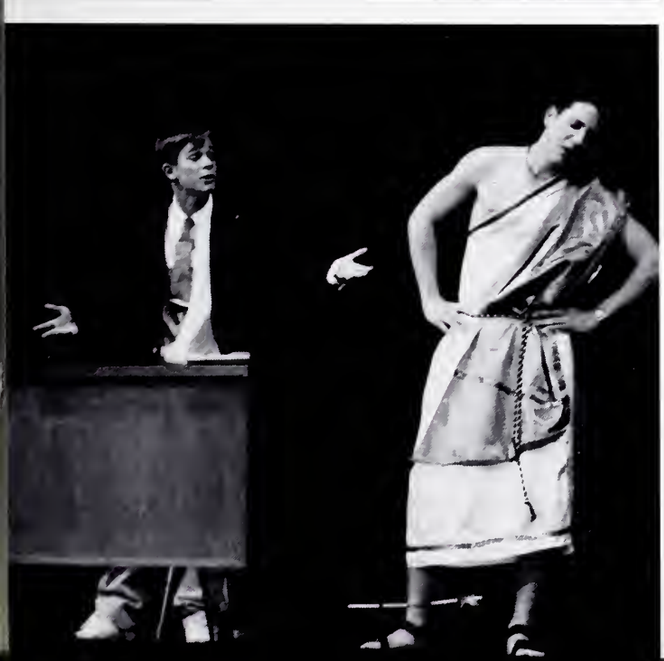

John Adamson and Kip Hoyt of Scenes from a Hall travel through North Central's wooden panels and find themselves in "CHALL,"

Little Spouse's cowboys sit in the saloon, questioning how to deal with Poedunk's woman shortage.

Beth Bruins, the teacher in Scenes from a Hall lectures her class on her mysterious history of North Central.

Meg Smith as Athena, goddess of war, is comforted by Hera, goddess of women and marriage, played by Greta Benesh in These People Are Gods.

TPAG's Andrew Held as Zeus expresses his feelings of worthlessness to one of his sidekicks, Achilles, played by Jason Rich.

Crackers the Clown, played by Jeran King, reads the love letter from his adored Eliza.

Freshman Candids

Shanna Howard assists Santa at the holiday party sponsored by Black Student Union and Homes for Black Children.

Eric Lopez looks skeptical about the number of books he needs to be a freshman.

June Leshnover, Cathie Wells, Tatiana Byrd, and Natalie Peterson get out of the green halls and into some fresh air.

Jordan Williams unhappily displays the reason he's not out and about on the gym floor.

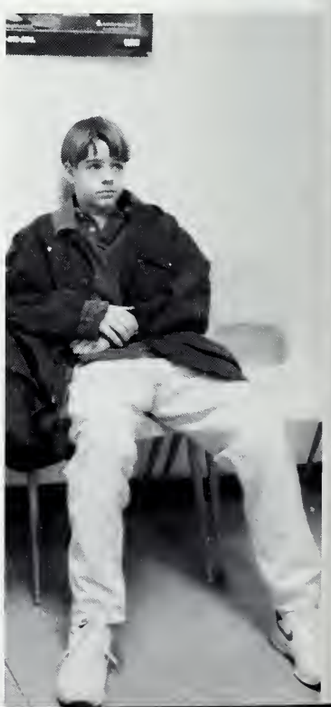

Trevor Peterson says "Leave me alone," after a long hard day.

Contreal Martin confesses, "I'm just chillin' like a well known villian."

We as consumers of dozens of products are constantly bombarded by ads. Ads have their place in all publications including our yearbook.

TOP QUALITY

Advertisements

FOR SALE. BUY THIS. DISCOUNT. COUPONS AVAILABLE. TWO FOR ONE. REBATE. the signs in every shop window beckon to students, calling them in to spend and spend. High school students are becoming a major portion of the consumer population, dominating markets such as clothing and entertainment. The vast array of places to buy things in and around the Nore area provides an excellent incentive for us to purchase items ranging from shoes to clothes to fast food. Our students can usually be found frequenting any Nora restaurants, especially those included on our Panther Discount Cards (Not, of course, on school time . . .). We work for our money (or beg our parents for just one more cash advance, please!) so we can go out to eat on weekends, go shopping for new clothes, fix our cars, and infinitely more reasons why filthy lucre is essential to our lives as teenagers. We search and search for just the right thing to buy, for ourselves or others. Our tastes reflect our school: we will settle for nothing less than
TOP QUALITY.

There Is Only One Sipe.

Rarity helps give precious stones value. But there is something of even greater rarity in jewelry.

Taste. Taste in design that distinguishes true elegance from mere ostentation.

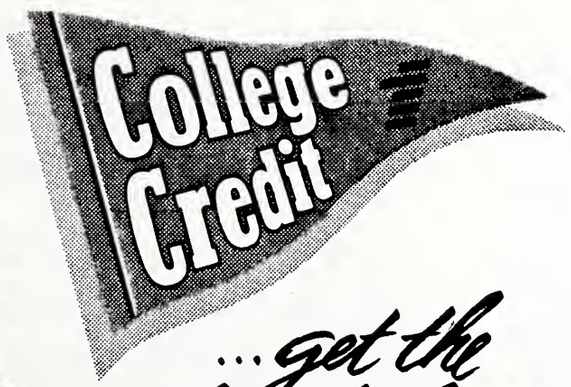

For over a century, the name J.C. Sipe has stood for fine jewelry presented in the absolute finest of taste.

And the tradition continues. There is only one Sipe. But, thankfully, now there are two locations.

Last Words

"NC is keen!" — Corey Jones, 10
"The potential for innumerable opportunities and pure elation one experiences at North Central is clearly unmatched anywhere, anytime, at any other institution." — Brian D.E. Tyson, 11
"The Performing Arts at North Central can't be beat!" — Mary Hayes, 10
"We should have a chill period." — Dallas Radford, 9
"North Central makes me dilapitate with giddiness!" — Dave Anderson, 12
"The best part of NC is lunch because you get to talk to and see all of your friends!" — Kyrie' Crenshaw, 10
"Have fun underclassmen, parking out in Iowa while NC is being rennovated." — Pat Staubach, 12
"North Central: Land of the free, home of the babes!" — Mark Bina, 10
"NC is on top of it all because of its beautiful multi-tone green interior design work." — Megan Conly and Bri Wood, 11
"NC is a melting pot of people." — Tony A. Gordon Jr., 11

"Take it from the top!" These Counterpoints enthusiastically practice their singing and dancing.

Even though the weather is cold, freshman Cindy Chang cheers on our team!

Senior Eric Allen excitedly shows off his dancing skills at Homecoming Dance. Later that evening, he was named the Homecoming King. Homecoming Queen was senior Africa Robey.

Summer wouldn't be summer without swimming, sunbathing, and. . .sailing! All this student needs is a good wind and he'll be off. Most sailors would agree that everyone should try this one of a kind sport.

Janet - English has been a blast hasn't it? (yeh right!) Have a great Summer!!! ☺ April

Colophon

The thirty-seventh edition of the Northerner was printed by Newsfoto Publishing Company of San Angelo, Texas. Dick Kennard served as our Newsfoto representative. The cover is lithocote four color process.

All 256 pages are enamel, thirty-one of which are in four process color. There was a press run of 1875 copies. The type style is Korinna with 10-point body copy, 8-point captions, 8-point picture panels and score blocks, and 10-point folio tabs with 12-point lettering. Each section editor chose his or her own headline and copy style. Dropped letters are supertype Macbeth.

Photography for seniors and underclassmen was handled by Prestige Studios. Tennis formals were taken by Doug Wick. All other pictures in this book were provided by staff photographers, parents, and members of the student body.
